Measures Opposing Widening Of Viet Nam War Are Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved the administration's $415-million foreign aid authorization bill today after rejecting policy riders opposing widening of the Viet Nam war.

After considering a letter from Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the committee voted 13 to 6 to reject an amendment by chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. Rusk said approval of the measure or the furnishing of

Desegregation Guidelines Are Announced

New Rules Outline Freedom of Choice School Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — New guidelines which "require actual desegregation" in the staffs of public schools which have had dual school systems were announced by the government today.

The new guidelines also, in the words of Harold Howe II, U.S. commissioner of education, "spell out that the intent of freedom of choice plans is to break down a dual system of schools and establish a single system of schools for all students in a community without regard to race, color, or national origins."

Another new requirement is that school authorities make progress in closing of small, inadequate schools established for Negro students or other minority groups.

Periodic Reports
Simplified procedures require periodic reports from school districts to measure progress in carrying out desegregation plans.

"It is the responsibility of the school system," Howe said in a statement, "to insure that any freedom of choice plan adopted by a district accomplishes the breakdown of any dual school system."

Simultaneously, Surgeon General William H. Stewart of the Public Health Service announced specific steps to assure compliance in the health and medical fields with the anti-discrimination provision of Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Compliance with the anti-discrimination provisions of Title

Allied Forces Destroy 2,000-Man Red Unit

U. S. Marines End First Year in Viet Nam With Defeat of Big Regiment

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U. S. Marines brought their first year in Viet Nam to a thunderous finish today by joining with crack South Vietnamese troops to shatter a new 2,000-man North Vietnamese regiment.

Nearly 1,000 Communists were said to have fallen before the combined air-ground assault by 6,000 Leathernecks, government paratroopers and rangers in three days of blistering fighting, that the Marines called their roughest action—and best showing of the war.

The fierce battle tapered off into a mop-up operation today, with the Marines and Vietnamese troops in pursuit of small bands of Red survivors. Prisoners said the regiment had been in South Viet Nam only a month since it filtered down from the North by the jungled Ho Chi Minh Trail, Allied spokesmen reported.

Costly Victory
But the victory was costly for the Allies. Marine officers told correspondents at the battle scene along the central coast that the Marines took their heaviest losses of any single battle in Viet Nam, although over-all Marine casualties were described as light. The toll came in the initial assault on Friday.

Eleven helicopters were hit by the Communists and two knocked down. The withering Red fire also forced down a Marine phantom jet. The two crewmen ejected safely offshore.

The intelligence information that enabled the Allied force to trap the Red regiment was provided by two North Vietnamese soldiers captured by government troops at the beginning of the month. They disclosed that the North Vietnamese regiment's mission was to cut Route 1, the strategic coastal highway, by mining it and blowing up a bridge.

Operation Utah
The Marines launched Operation Utah with their Vietnamese allies Friday. Some troops dropped into the valley by helicopter, others pushed in by road.

Johnson Asks
Pay Raises for Civil Servants

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to approve an average pay increase of 3.2 per cent, including fringe benefits, for federal civilian employees.

In a message to Congress, Johnson said direct salary increases will average 2.8 per cent. The remainder would be for fringe benefits.

Johnson estimated the cost of the pay increases, to become effective next Jan. 1, at $485 million a year.

Conservatives Get Majority In Austria

Klaus Deciding on Coalition With Socialist Party

VIENNA (AP) — Chancellor Josef Klaus and other leaders of his Conservative People's party discussed today whether to make the government alone or continue the coalition with the Socialists which has governed Austria since the war.

In national elections Sunday, the Conservatives for the first time won a majority in Parliament. They picked up four more seats for a total of 85 in the 165-seat lower chamber.

The Socialists slipped from 75 to 74 seats and the right-wing Freedom party from 8 to 6.

The Democratic Progress party of former Socialist Interior Minister Franz Olah failed to make the grade. Olah lost his independent seat but made inroads on the Socialists in vital areas.

The Communists, who supported the Socialist candidates in 24 election districts, were defeated in their only try for a seat from downtown Vienna.

Although Klaus is no longer dependent on the Socialists for a majority, the tradition of coalition government has become so strong there is considerable pressure for its continuance.

Klaus gave no indication of his plans for the new government but described the election result as a "clear-cut rejection of the Socialist-Communist popular front."

The Socialist party chief, Vice Chancellor Bruno Pittermann, has indicated readiness to join Klaus in a new coalition. The two parties divided the Cabinet posts evenly in previous governments. If he is ready for a new coalition, Klaus is certain to insist on at least one more ministry for his party.

Lengthy Murder Trial

Candace Mossler, Nephew Acquitted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler set out today, as she put it, to mother a brood of adored children and to "pick up the pieces" of a $33-million business.

She was asked in the presence of her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, following their acquittal Sunday in the 1964 slaying of her multimillionaire husband.

"Mrs. Mossler, will you and Mel Powers be married?" In a little girl voice, normal for her but tinged it seemed with a trace of vexation, Mrs. Mossler with her children behind her, replied at a news conference:

"We don't have any intentions in that direction."

Pair Acquitted
Union between aunt and nephew is generally forbidden by American law, although it would be possible outside the United States. Florida law prohibits marriage between blood aunt and nephew.

Less than three hours earlier, Mrs. Mossler and Powers had been acquitted by an all-male jury of the brutal slaying of her husband, Jacques Mossler, 69.

Rescue Crews Cut Through Deep Snow Across Dakotas

16 Deaths Attributed to Storm; Called Worst Blizzard in Decades

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Road-plowing crews and rescue missions began bringing relief today to blizzard-battered parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

The toll of deaths stood at 16. Ranchers were counting up a heavy loss of livestock, especially in South Dakota.

Helicopters and airplanes, bulldozers and plows worked to relieve thousands stranded in what has been termed the Dakotas' worst such storm in decades.

Travelers who had taken refuge in stores, cafes, service stations, or homes continued their journeys.

Heroic Effort
Stories of human kindness and heroic effort came out of the chill, snow-swept land.

Like the North Dakota farm boy, Oren Auck, of rural Sterling, who scanned the whitened countryside and got worried when he didn't see smoke coming out of a neighbor's chimney.

The 12-year-old boy put on his coat and overshoes and trudged through deep snowdrifts to the farm of Lowell Brown, who lived alone. There, he found the 65-year-old farmer dead, his body draped over a windmill brace in the yard — a victim of the blizzard which lashed the Dakotas three days last week.

Vignettes like this were commonplace as rural and city folk alike fought for survival against the storm.

Livestock Losses
Six of the storm deaths occurred in South Dakota and five each in North Dakota and Minnesota.

There was a staggering loss in cattle and sheep — perhaps running in the millions of dollars.

One rancher, Frank Maciejewski Sr., of Timber Lake, S.D., estimated his at $100,000. "I had 400 to 500 cattle and same number of sheep," he said. "The cattle bunched up next to a shed in a feedlot and smothered. The sheep got smothered, too, in those deep drifts."

"One of my neighbors lost 150 cows in a corral and another lost 100. A couple of barns collapsed under the snow on other ranches and killed some cows."

Open Roads
In both states, work crews pushed around the clock to open up roads clogged with drifts up to 25 feet deep.

The North Dakota Highway Patrol reported officers had rescued 55 persons from stranded cars. Lt. Gov. Charles Tighe, acting for vacationing Gov. William Guy of North Dakota, said Sunday, "Our helicopters are doing a good job."

"Saturday night we picked up a child and a woman on separate farms. They had pneumonia. Today we're going after two children with frostbitten feet," Tighe said.

Guy, who had been in Arizona, arrived home Sunday and planned an aerial survey today.

Signal for Help
Near Ipswich, S.D., two blankets spread in the snow alerted a Civil Air Patrol pilot.

G. Mennen Williams Quits as Secretary For African Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — G. Mennen Williams resigned today as assistant secretary of state for African affairs to run for the Senate from Michigan.

Williams' resignation will become effective March 23.

In accepting Williams' resignation in a "Dear Soapy" letter President Johnson said: "Despite the fact that your decision rests upon your reasonable and understandable desire to serve the public in elective office once more, I am nevertheless deeply regretful that we will not have your fine and steady hand in critical assignments which your have discharged so well and faithfully, under the leadership of both President Kennedy and myself."

Travel Movie Next Sunday On England

Former Newspaper Picture Editor
Narrator, Producer

"England — From London to Land's End" is the title of the travel movie next in the Northside Kewanis Club Sunday evening series. Jonathan Hagar, who produced the travelogue in color, narrates the film. It will be shown at 7:30 p.m. next Sunday in the Appleton High School Auditorium.

Jonathan Hagar's business is pictures and has been ever since he sold a Page 1 shot of a fisherman's rescue to the Vancouver Sun.

As picture editor of the St. Louis Globe Democrat, he daily selects the best from the hundreds of news and feature photos which come to his desk from all over the world. A graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, Hagar has been a newspaperman for 20 years and has covered everything from crime and crises to band concerts and bowl games. A former London correspondent of the Stars & Stripes, he is married to British journalist Helen Munro. With her assistance, he brings to the film-lecture platform an absorbing story of England.

Color Portrait "England — From London to Land's End" is captured in an intimate color portrait of the land and people. Great cities, quaint villages, rolling dunes and rugged coasts are revealed in all their charm and glory. The English — young and old, at work and play — come to the screen in a person-to-person tour of southern England.

The first part of the journey to "Merrie Olde England" will take the audience along the Thames in London, to visit Wallbrook, the mighty tower bridge and the Tower of London. St. Paul's Cathedral, the Houses of Parliament and Westminster Abbey.

Action is over the shoulder of a sidewalk artist in Trafalgar Square. Then to Piccadilly Circus, Grosvenor Square and a walk on the grass in Kensington Gardens. A flying trip will take the audience over the rooftops to ancient West Gate, the High Street, Tudor houses of the weavers and the great cathedral. On the Channel coast will be Hythe, Romney, Rye and Battle Abbey, the Long Man of Wilmington.

The second half of our tour of England will include Salisbury, Bath, Castle Combe, Wells with its cathedral, and then westward to Dunster, Cornwall, Plymouth and back to London.

New Dental Discovery Ends Need for Pastes and Powders

New York, N. Y. (Special) — After years of research, scientists have discovered an entirely new substance to make false teeth fit beautifully. Denture wearers report such success with this new substance in retreating loose dentures that they no longer need paste and powder adhesives.

This new dental discovery is a soft, pliable plastic that is applied directly to dentures from the tube. User then inserts dentures into mouth and bites down. Looseness, slipping, and clicking disappear. Sore spots are quickly relieved. One application lasts weeks, stays soft and pliable in use. Nightly cleansing does not wash it away, yet it is easily removed when desired. It will not harm plates. This substance makes it possible to re-fit and relene worn dentures at home, saving over $100 on costly relining work.

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7 — Channels 4-5 — Hullabaloo rides high with Pat Boone as its very grownup host. His chief guest is Nancy Ames, the shapely former TWG Girl. For the youngsters there's the usual flock of "top pop" artists Britain's Donovan, the Turtles and the Womenfolk. (Color)

7:30-8 — Channels 2-7-12 — Again the towering, beefy Clint Walker shows up on The Lucy Show to set Lucille Ball into twitters. This is an especially funny outing, with the smitten red head wrapping herself in a pasture of wool to knit Clint a birthday sweater. (Color)

8-8:30 — Channels 2-7-12 — You can't help from directing your sentiment toward Aunt Bee on The Andy Griffith Show. Good-hearted Bee takes a shine to a relative's baby and is eager to take care of the youngsters for a few days. (Color)

8-8:30 — Channels 11-6-9 — A Man Called Shenandoah has another lead to his identity in "Plunder." In this glossy and somewhat suspenseful outing, our hero finds a locket with his photograph in it. When he takes the locket to a shabby farm he is soon involved with a young lady, who thinks her ex-convict father can identify the picture.

8-9 — Channels 4-5 — The Andy Williams Show has some eye and ear filling treats. Peggy Lee in a black velvet bustle, padded fin-de-siecle gown and imprisoned in an appropriate setting sings a jazz version of "A Bird in a Gilded Cage." Tony Bennett is on hand to warble "The Love Theme From the Sandpiper." And Frank Gorshin is present with some nimble imitations of famous actors ordering coffee. (Color)

There is how the nation's 350,000 law officers are coping with the rise in crime.

She employs Bobby Darin's escort service, and hero Ben Gazzara goes along for the ride. (Color)

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

ALL CRIMINALS COULD BE CURED BY PSYCHIATRY! TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

False. Some crime is compulsive. The criminal acts as he does because of some neurotic or psychotic tendencies within himself that he cannot help. In such cases, he could be helped by effective psychiatry. But much crime indicates, not disturbances of personality, but a lack of character. The problem is moral, rather than psychiatric. Psychiatry can sometimes make it possible for a person to act morally, but it can by no means guarantee that he will. Can you tell in advance who'll make a good leader? Yes — No — No. We can make lists of qualities and often tell who has them and who does not. But often those who seem the most promising never come through, while those who seem to have little on the ball rise to the top. The differences aren't merely in the persons but in the situations. Sometimes the public demands one set of qualities, and some times a quite different set. Some persons who occupy positions of prominence and power would never have been heard of, had circumstances been different. Most children are emotionally disturbed! True — False — False. Only one in seven presents some special problem that calls for special treatment. Such children are the physically handicapped, the retarded and the emotionally disturbed. On the "top side" are the gifted and outstanding children who include, not only the better students but those who have unusual artistic, leadership or other talents. These need not only an enriched curriculum, but special counseling and guidance, to attain their best development.

Kaukauna Man Unhurt When Car Hits Train
KAUKAUNA — Richard Grissman, 35, 625 W. Sixth St., Kaukauna, escaped injury about 6:10 p.m. Friday when the car he was driving west on Elm Street collided with a Chicago and North Western switch engine. Grissman told police he hit the brakes when he heard the train whistle as he approached the crossing but the car skidded 75 feet into the side of the train. The front end of the auto was damaged, but Grissman was able to drive the vehicle home.

VI of the Civil Rights Act is necessary before federal financial assistance can be given. The new policy reportedly also will include much stiffer requirements on the reporting of progress towards desegregation.

The guidelines are expected to speed up school desegregation in the South by restricting the freedom of choice procedures under which school districts could base desegregation plans on geographic attendance areas or a combination of geographic areas and freedom of choice.

The proposed changes will request school districts to include some provision for the transportation of students living in neighborhood with de facto segregation to schools in other districts.

Teacher Bias

The new requirements on faculty desegregation and assignment are described as adding generally for complete elimination of discrimination and the assignment of both Negro and white teachers to the same school when there are faculty members of both races in a district regardless of the composition of the student body.

On the health side, the Public Health Service will send a questionnaire this week to hospitals to report on their antidiscrimination compliance.

Under the medicare program hospitals and nursing homes must sign nondiscrimination pledges before they will be approved to receive payments. The program becomes effective July 1.

AMC Employees Return to Work

KENOSHA (AP)—Production resumed at American Motors Corp. plants in Kenosha and Milwaukee today after a two-week shutdown, the second in two months.

About 9,500 production and maintenance workers were returning today at Kenosha and 5,300 at Milwaukee.

The company said the shutdowns were scheduled to balance inventories with sales of Rambler automobiles.

McGovern has offered a rider that would make it clear passage of the aid bill involves no endorsement of Johnson's conduct of the Viet Nam war. But he said he will not press it in the Senate if the committee rejects it.

Red China Policy

In his Red China policy statement, Fulbright said some U.S. experts believe Chinese leaders expect war with the United States within a year. He added that some Americans also expect such a conflict.

Fulbright said he scheduled the committee hearings on China because they might alter this fatal expectancy of war.

Before fresh political and military decisions are made on Southeast Asia, the chairman said, it is essential to try to understand the Chinese and their leaders.

More Pigs Will Bring Decline in Prices for Pork

STEVENS POINT (AP)—Hog prices after rising through all of 1965 will recede all of this year, an economist says.

Prof. Gene A. Futtrell, economist at Iowa State University, made the prediction at a week-end meeting of the 8,000-member Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Co-op.

Futtrell told the 200 delegates that hog prices already have reached their peak for 1966. He said they would keep declining through 1967 because of a larger supply of pigs.

The professor said he thought U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates of hogs farrowing were probably way low and forecast a spring crop 10 percent above last year's size.

Johnson Returns From Ranch Rest

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson returned to Washington today after enjoying what an aide described as considerable relaxation and rest at his Texas ranch.

Deputy press secretary Robert H. Fleming said the chief executive was weary when he flew to Texas Friday night. He said Mrs. Johnson had encouraged him to get a change of scenery.

I think he's gotten considerable relaxation and rest down here, said Fleming.

The press aide said Johnson planned to spend a normal week at his White House desk, possibly sending Congress one or more special messages covering new legislative proposals.

small hills to cut off any escape routes. The enemy numbered about 1,000 men, a full regiment, the spokesman said.

The three days of intense fighting brought the Leathernecks first year in this frustrating jungle war to a close on a glorious note. Since their first units came ashore on Da Nang's beaches last March 8, the Marines have been seeking an elusive foe who usually vanishes into the jungle when offered a fight.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, traveled to Phu Khe to look over the scene of the fighting between the 1st Infantry and the Communists.

Getting Better

Our American troops are getting better and better week by week, Westmoreland told newsmen as he inspected the four captured machine guns.

They are becoming more professional. As we enter this period of sustained combat, the enemy will hear more from them in the weeks and months to come.

At this time, I could not be any prouder of the U.S. fighting man.

The Viet Cong inflicted moderate casualties in two attacks early today on a 120-man military post and a company of government infantrymen on a nearby hill 18 miles north of Saigon, a government spokesman said.

Rather than withdraw from the fertile rice fields, the North Vietnamese had chosen to stand and fight it out, the spokesman said.

days to pick up where I left off.

The jury heard more than 100 witnesses during the seven week trial in a white-walled sixth floor courtroom. Included were convicts the state called from penitentiaries who swore Mrs. Mossler and her nephew had shipped for two years to hire someone to kill her husband.

Failing that, the state claimed they undertook to do it themselves.

States Charge

The state charged that Powers was a man driven to murder by an insatiable desire for this woman who was the master mind and the manipulator behind the entire scheme.

This was the testimony — and it ran to hundreds of thousands of words — the jury took with them in their minds at 9:14 p.m. Thursday into a deliberation room.

They balloted that night and they were split. They balloted four more times on Friday and Saturday. At 11:30 a.m. Saturday they went in word to Judge George Schulz that they were hopelessly deadlocked. The vote then, according to a juror after wards, was nine for acquittal, three for first degree murder judgments against both defendants.

Reach Accord

Judge Schulz sent word back to the jury to try some more.

And by Sunday morning the jurors had reached agreement. The verdict for acquittal was unanimous as a final ballot was taken for each of the defendants.

At 10:37 a.m. there was a knock on the jury room door. A bailiff, William Peters, responded to the summons and was informed: "We have a verdict."

It took nearly an hour and a half for the judge to round up the lawyers and have the defendants brought from their hotel.

Then at 12:12 p.m. the jury filed in.

After three minutes by the courtroom clock, the innocent verdicts had been read.

Boston Papers Shut Down by Printers' Strike

BOSTON (AP) — Federal and state mediators planned to meet separately today with labor and management representatives of five Boston newspapers shut down by a strike of printers and molders.

Pickets marched in front of the plant of the morning and evening Globe, the morning Herald, the evening Traveler and the record American.

The dispute centered on whether the union employees should receive in cash what management offered in health, welfare and pension benefits. The current top scale wage for printers is $140 a week. Molders receive a top of $126.

Meanwhile, the 2½ million inhabitants of the Boston area turned out of town newspapers and radio and television stations to keep informed.

Most area radio stations greatly expanded news broadcasts.

2 Children Die In Kenosha Fire

KENOSHA (AP) — A fire in Kenosha has taken the life of a second child.

Eugene Williams, 11½ years old, died Saturday night as a result of the fire that swept the two-story home occupied by two families.

Two months old Eugene Hicks was dead or dying at a Kenosha hospital Saturday morning.

The Aaron Hicks and Eugene Williams families shared the that aid was needed. He radioed for help and a sheriff used a powerful truck to buck drifts and take an ill man to a hospital.

At rural Morrissetown, S.D., another pilot was the words "help" trapped out in the snow. Nearby lay the lifeless form of an elderly rancher who lived alone.

Others, wise to the viciousness of the prairie blizzard, met the challenge and survived.

Rancher Otto Mettler, 49, his wife and their son, 17, waited nearly 60 hours in their mired car near McLaughlin, S.D.

Clothes, Candy, Prayers

Mettler had had the foresight to buy some candy bars while they were in town and these help sustain them. His wife always packed away extra clothing in the car's trunk during winter. That kept them warm.

Mettler said: "We said quite a few prayers during those lonely three nights and two days. The mother and boy also fought their spirits with an old Sunday School song, 'Jesus Loves Me.'"

Finally Saturday morning the Mettlers crawled out onto the snowdrifts and found they could walk on the crusty surface to their home two miles away.

Mettler estimates at least half of his 100 head of cattle died, a loss of about $15,000.

Minnesota got the tail end of the storm. But deep drifts piled up in areas that already had heavy snowfalls.

At Finland, Air Force radar station on the Lake Superior north shore, a tractor chugged through drifts which had isolated the base and 220 persons for three days.

Bill Would Put Stop to 'Dognaping'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for 1200 medical research organizations urged a House subcommittee today to revise a bill designed to halt dognaping — interstate trafficking in stolen dogs and cats.

Maurice B. Bisscher, president of the National Society for Medical Research, said in testimony prepared for a House Agriculture subcommittee that the scientific community approves heartily of the basic objectives of the legislation.

But Bisscher asked that reference to animals other than dogs and cats be eliminated from the bill.

It would impose a well nigh impossible burden to regulate traffic in fish, frogs, turtles, reptiles, birds and the many other mammalian forms used in laboratories, he said.

He proposed a modified bill that also would eliminate any reference to research facilities. The modified bill would regulate only dealers of dogs and cats.

The bill before the committee would make it unlawful for research facilities or dealers to buy, sell or transport animals without a license.

Deputy Governor of Philippine Province Killed in Ambush

MANILA (AP) — A band of gunmen killed the deputy governor of Abra Province and two of his aides in an ambush at dawn today.

Five other aides of Dep. Gov. Comrado Berona were believed to have been wounded in the ambush near Bangued in southern Luzon.

The Philippine Constabulary could not give details of the shooting but said the area had been cordoned off in an attempt to trap the gunmen.

The motive for the shooting was not known.

At a ballot station primary election, the voter shall place a cross or other mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, or by setting his ballot in the name of any other candidate.

The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled, it may be returned to the ballot clerk who must issue another. Its stead, but not more than three ballots, be issued to any one voter. Five minutes time is allowed for voting. No ballot, official ballots or memoranda to assist the voter in casting his ballot, can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

At a ballot station it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsement and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside can be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his ballot to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

A voter who declines to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of a voter who is not a candidate to be elected by the voter, and if he declares that he is unable to do so, he may have a voter assist him in marking his ballot, or a voter who is not a candidate to be elected by the voter, and if he declares that he is unable to do so, he may have a voter assist him in marking his ballot.

Your Problems

Ann Relents Under Deluge of Mail Against Wearing Girdles

BY ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: Well, there is no way out of it. It's ten lashes with a wet noodle for Annie.

In a recent column I said every woman should wear a girdle — even if she's slender as a reed. Reasons: (1) Girdles are a must to keep stockings up. (2) No matter how well reared, a woman needs a girdle or she will jiggle when she walks.

Dozens of females took the snap out of my advice by suggesting a variety of ways to keep stockings up without a girdle. Hundreds of men insist that a woman should jiggle when she walks — and why am I trying to take all the fun out of life anyway?

Dan Daniels, sparkling columnist for the Wheeling News-Register, wrote: "I'm the last guy in the world to put the rap on self-improvement, but I happen to think God's design is better. Why look up everything? When a lady trusses herself up like a knight in full armor, she doesn't look thinner, she merely rearranges the lumps. The best do thing girls have going for them is that they are not boys. So oil drum, if it fits, but I've yet please. Dear Ann, change your advice before you smother the one bright light in our lives and create a helluva boom in whalebone." Danny Boy.

The Ailing House

Insulation Improved By Air Space

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: While examining my roof, (it's a new house) I noticed that the insulation is jammed tight against the underside. Is this right? Or should there be a space between it and the roof?

A: It's much better practice to have at least an inch of air space between the insulation and the roof. That not only keeps the insulation out of contact with the roof, in case it becomes damp from a leak, but the air space adds insulation value of its own.

Q: Is it necessary to roll formica after cementing it to a counter top? I have a small space I like to cover myself.

A: Yes, not only should the formica be rolled firmly, but it's an excellent idea to weight it down until the cement is thoroughly dried. If you have a photograph print roller, or an old-fashioned rolling pin, these will work fine.

Q: We recently put up a green translucent fiberglass roof over the patio. During heavy rains it leaks in a few places at the joints where the panels overlap. Is there anything besides tar which can plug the leaks?

A: If you can remove the nails and washers fastening the edges of the overlapping panels to the supporting beam, you can apply more of the special adhesive recommended for sealing these joints. You can also try to juggle the overlapping edges more tightly together. Then put an extra dab of adhesive over the nail holes and drive the nails through the cement, thus making a water-tight seal. If removing the nails is impossible, instead of sealing the leaky joints with tar, use a clear adhesive, such as the epoxy type. It won't be so conspicuous.

When I returned from the restroom (where I removed my miserable girdle which had been choking me to death) several stenographers were in a huddle discussing your praise of the girdle. Like the man who enjoyed pounding his head on the floor because it felt so good when he stopped, the best thing I can say for the girdle is that I put one on in the morning because it feels so darned good when I take it off at noon.—Happy But Happy girdles when on duty. Some pilots had hoped to include (as part of the routine pre-flight check), the snapping of girdles to insure compliance with the regulations, but the girls insisted that they be left on their honor. Is this fair?—M.D.

Dear M.D.: Yes, it's fair. Flying those great big beautiful planes is as much fun as any man is entitled to in the course of a day's work.

are equally important. He can win (or lose) as many match points at two of a suit as at a grand slam.

If today's hand were played at rubber bridge the defenders might allow South to make his contract out of sheer lack of interest in the outcome. Since the hand was played in a tournament nobody relaxed.

West led the jack of spades, declarer played low from the dummy, and East signalled encouragement with the eight.

This trick told West that his partner had the ace and queen of spades; it was enough to defeat the contract.

If you have already mentally led the ten of spades next from the West hand slap yourself mentally and tell yourself not to be so thoughtless. You must make a key play before continuing the spades.

Vital Switch The actual West player led the ace of clubs at the second trick. Then he switched back to spades.

South played low again from the dummy, but East did not make the mistake of allowing West's ten to hold the trick.

East overtook with the queen of spades and cashed the ace, allowing West to discard the deuce of clubs.

Now East returned a club for West to ruff. West then took the setting trick with the ace of diamonds, completing a gem-like defense.

Incidentally, don't sniff at this kind of play even if you don't care for tournaments. Every body's favorite partner is the big holder, but the next choice is the tenacious defender.

Bring Back Glow

Many complexions take on a "prison pallor" at this time of year. A winter of indoor living addition is a nicety; not a necessity.)

To restore freshness and glow, steam treatments are among the most effective. Easy, too! Here's the method:

Remove any cosmetics with cream or liquid cleanser. Also wash oily skin with soap and thoroughly rinse. With normal or dry skin, skip the step. Next fill a four-quart cooking pot with water and let it come to a rolling boil. Add three drops of extract of mint. (The year. A winter of indoor living addition is a nicety; not a necessity.)

Girl Joins Cadets in ROTC Class

By PHIL BROWN

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — She's not an exceptionally good shot and she doesn't take part in bayonet drill, but blonde Roberta Soden is one of the most enthusiastic students in Michigan State's ROTC classes. "It was kind of a strange thing to see a girl there when we came in for the first day of class," said Cadet L.E. Schlaner Jr. But, he added, "it's kind of a welcome relief to have a girl in the class."

Roberta said she can take a rifle apart, clean it and reassemble it as fast as most cadets and keep up with them in the classroom, as well.

Reads Maps Too

She does pretty well in map reading, said her instructor, Lt. Col. Charles F. Kell.

Miss Soden, 19 and an energetic, attractive 5-foot 3 is seeking extra training for a planned career in the Women's Army Corps. She's attending the classes but receiving no university credit. She's not allowed to take part in parades and bayonet drill.

But at Oregon State University last year she was a full-fledged ROTC student, receiving straight A's in Army organization and history, national security and marksmanship.

Her father, a major in the Army Corps of Engineers, was transferred to Detroit and Miss Soden enrolled at MSU.

The Only Girl

The head of MSU's 432-man (and one girl) Army ROTC, Col. Robert G. Platt, said "we were very reluctant to take her. The program very clearly is designed for males. But her reasons for wanting to take the courses are perfectly valid."

Roberta is majoring in political science, concentrating on the Far East. She wants to do intelligence work.

"I'm a firm believer in not getting married before 30. I think," she said. "I imagine if I cab driver Tsui Chuen Lau and marry, it would be an Army man."

Dutch Citizens Still are perturbed about the forthcoming marriage of Holland's Crown Princess Beatrix, 28-year-old heiress to the throne of The Netherlands, and former German diplomat Claus von Amsberg, her 39-year-old commoner fiance and former Hitler Youth member. This official photograph of the couple was made at the time the couple announced the wedding date. The ceremony will be performed Thursday. (AP Wirephoto)

SEAMS TO ME Drapery Linings

By Patricia Scott

Lining on draperies serves two purposes — to protect the fabric from dirt and fading, and to give a more evenly-draped appearance from the outside.

Lining is usually made of cotton sateen in a neutral shade, such as beige, but you can choose any other color. If you're making pinch pleats, use a woven pleater tape. This is a firm tape with finished edges and woven-in pockets. Hooks or ring pleaters are inserted in the pockets and they create perfect pinch pleats.

NOTE: Be careful when measuring windows for the proper yardage, allowing enough for heading and hems.

TO MAKE LINED DRAPERIES:

Figure 1: Place fabric on a flat surface. Measure the length. Then stitch a 2-inch double hem in the drapery is to be, plus 7 in the lining. (Don't omit inches. Remove selvage, or clip weights — they will help the selvage at intervals on fabric drapery hem to hang evenly.)

Money Service Center Under Consideration

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you were in the business of lending money, would you make a loan to an unskilled worker earning $60 a week in an unsteady job? Would you extend city slum neighborhoods. So far, centers have been launched in Washington, Wilmington, Chicago and Puerto Rico — in store fronts and other modest quarters.

Counseling Service

Even those in the most precarious, debt-ridden condition are offered low interest loans along with modest savings plans. Also offered are financial counseling services, free advice on money problems and a neighborhood consumer education program.

Now, in addition, 19 more credit unions for the poor have been launched across the U. S. under federal government sponsorship. Details are being worked out in Washington for a nationwide system of "money service centers" for the poor. The centers would include a full range of credit union-type savings and lending facilities, counseling services, debt reduction and financial planning.

Will such low cost loan centers only encourage the poor to dig themselves even deeper into debt? How bad will delinquency be? Should the poor string of credit unions designed borrow at all?

Whatever your quick answers to these questions might be, whatever you might think are right borrowing policies for the poor, the fact is that the majority of the impoverished do not use consumer credit regularly. Recent studies show that four out of five borrowers from flight through space.

consumer finance companies are in the lower income groups. If credit is not available at reasonable rates from legitimate sources, the poor turn to marginal, high-interest lenders, expensive "easy credit" buying terms and to loan sharks.

As a result, the poor themselves rank the shortage and high cost of credit among their top financial problems — directly behind only jobs and housing.

Thus, it is exceedingly encouraging that, contrary to general opinion, actual experi-

Soviets Curb Fear for Venus

MOSCOW (AP) — There was assurance from Tass Saturday for Western scientists who feared that earthly germs might have been borne to Venus by the unmanned Soviet satellite Venus 3, which landed on the planet last Tuesday.

"The descending apparatus of Venus 3 was sterilized before the start to destroy all terrestrial micro-organisms and to prevent their possible carriage to Venus," the Soviet news agency said.

Various British and American authorities had felt proliferating microbes were hitchhikers on the one-ton capsule, which hit Venus after a 25-million mile journey from flight through space.

ence shows that the poor are about as good credit risks as any middle income family. In one credit union in the explosive Watts slum district of Los Angeles, the loan delinquency rate is less than 1 per cent, comparable to the rates of any traditional lending institution. Says a spokesman for CUNA, an experimental credit union system, "Repayments are often made late. But if you give the low income borrower a reasonable chance, he almost invariably pays back what he owes. He knows that since real financial emergencies arise frequently, he must protect his credit standing."

Adds and emphasizes a government official in Washington, "Legitimate sources of emergency financial aid for the poor could help prevent a lot of other troubles, such as eviction for a late rent payment, wage garnishment by money lenders, repossession of furniture due to race bets, late installment payments."

Using sledges and wooden shatters a store-front window in an abandoned auto-parts supply store at 3133 N. Cicero Ave. after they found front and rear doors heavily barricaded. Lt. Francis Nash of the Police Intelligence Division, said records were seized showing that the clearinghouse handled nearly $100,000 in bets each week. He said some 50 bookmakers on the North and West sides were served by the operation.

Rescued Woman Saves Her Fish

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — When Evelyn Freeman of Ulica goes ice fishing, she wants fish.

And the fact that a two-mile stretch of ice had broken loose Friday and set her and 17 other fishermen adrift in Anchor Bay on Lake St. Clair didn't make a bit of difference to her. Mrs. Freeman, 46, refused to let the helicopter without her day's income borrower a reasonable chance, he almost invariably pays back what he owes. He knows that since real financial emergencies arise frequently, he must protect his credit standing."

Smash Huge Chicago Bookmaking Operation

CHICAGO (AP) — Police Saturday smashed what they described as the biggest bookie operation in Chicago, a clearing house handling an estimated $3.9 million a year in sports and horse racing bets.

The concept of a new system of low cost credit coordinated with essential consumer financial education is simple enough, experiments with it may lead us to one of the key weapons in our war against inherited poverty.

Appleton Citizens to Vote In City Primary Tuesday

First Such City Test In 30 Years

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Appleton voters go to the polls Tuesday to cast their lot in the city's first primary election in 30 years.

Lackluster campaigning and the absence of candidate confrontations are factors which may contribute to a light voter turnout.

There are 22,565 persons registered to vote, but no one is willing to venture an estimate on how many will show up at the polls between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m.

The outcome of the primary will narrow down to two the candidates for the offices of mayor, city clerk, assessor, attorney and alderman in the 2nd, 6th, 18th and 20th wards.

The general election is Tuesday, April 5.

Mayor's Race

By virtue of the office, most attention will be centered on the mayor's race with its four contenders. Originally, there were seven announced candidates but three eventually dropped from contention.

The mayoralty field consists of:

— Mayor Clarence Mitchell, 49, of 312 W. Lindbergh St., who has been the city's chief executive the past eight years and is seeking a fifth term.

— Attorney George Buckley, 49, of 2204 N. Viola St., a former one-term alderman who ran for the mayor post two years ago.

— Robert T. Maves, 45, of 1903 E. Glendale Ave., former city clerk now in the insurance business.

— Ronald H. Steward, 34, of 412 W. Commercial St., an employee at the Good Housekeeping Shop.

Salary Increases

The mayor's job pays $13,000 a year now but the salary will be increased to $14,000 May 1 and to $15,000 on May 5, 1967.

Unopposed since 1955, City Clerk Elden Broehm faces a test from two challengers for his job, also a two-year term, and to $15,000 on May 1, 1967.

Broehm, 41, who resides at 1119 N. State St., has been clerk since 1955 and up until two years ago also performed the duties of comptroller until the position of finance director was created.

Experience in Government

Also seeking the nomination are City Sealer Roger LaBerge, 56, of 1905 N. Lawe St., and Mrs. Dorothy Stillings, 1233 Oakcrest Court, a former mem-

Appleton Bar Operator Fined $50 After She Pleads Guilty to Charge

Mrs. Lilli Steckling, 25, 2319 N. Racine St., was fined $50 and costs this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after she changed her plea to guilty on a charge involving an offense at her tavern Nov. 29.

The complaint, filed by Appleton police, stated that Mrs. Steckling, operator of the Tradewinds Bar, 208 N. Richmond St., permitted the obstruction of a full and complete view of the interior of the tavern from the outside during hours of which the sale of liquor was prohibited.

Mrs. Steckling pleaded innocent of the charge Dec. 3 and had trial set for today.

A second charge, that of failure to have the premises vacated between 1 and 8 a.m. Nov. 29, was dismissed on a motion by Asst. City Atty. Dennis Herrling.

She also had pleaded innocent on that charge Dec. 3.

Citizen Petitions Urged

Site Protest Takes New Turn

Appleton's Mayor Clarence Mitchell and other Fox Cities government leaders today spearheaded a mounting campaign officially to protest selection of northwest Green Bay for a new four-year university and requested residents to circulate petitions protesting the site selection.

The state selection committee announced Feb. 25, it had picked a site east of Green Bay to serve Northeastern Wisconsin.

"There has been strong public reaction to the site selection on the part of Appleton and other Fox Cities residents," Mitchell said this morning.

"In checking with officials of other cities, towns and villages throughout the region I have found they, too, are receiving numerous calls from people who were surprised and upset by the action of the site committee," Mitchell said.

Gov. Warren Knowles, who has yet to comment on the site selection, today was scheduled to receive the first official governmental protest from the City of Appleton.

Mayor Mitchell said a petition of protest authorized last week by the city council was being sent to the governor by registered mail.

It is expected the governor and state's Coordinating Committee for Higher Education will be under heavy fire from governmental and citizen groups this week.

"We want to get all the petitions, cards and letters of protest immediately so they can be filed with the governor and coordinating committee at once," Mitchell advised.

To File Petition Mitchell indicated various governmental officials would probably file them at Madison in person to put emphasis on the general objection the people in the Fox Cities have to a new university east of Green Bay.

The mayor, who authored the resolution adopted by the council, felt it expressed the general feeling that the site selection committee had ignored criteria — plus the heavy population concentration in the cities, towns and villages comprising the Fox Cities.

Shelley saw his car again about 10 a.m. as it nosed out of about 15 feet of water at the end of a cable that was stretched from a large wreck-er.

Two skin divers began working about 9 a.m. to secure the cable on the front end of the car that was sitting sideways on a rock bed at the bottom of the river. The divers were Glen (Bill) Swick Jr., 523 E. South River St., an Appleton furniture man, and his brother, Earl, 2801 E. Newberry St. Appleton policemen also were at the scene.

Shelley, who has been parking at the mill for about 14 years, said he apparently left the gear selector lever in neutral. The car has an automatic transmission. There are no protective railings between the parking lot and the river which slopes off rapidly in that area.

Water Damage The car was towed to a garage. The only damage appeared to be from water. Shelley said this morning he did not know if the car can be put back into running order. He was not sure if his insurance covered the loss.

Request for Warning Signal Denied by PSC

State Says Situation At Perkins Street Not Dangerous

Appleton's request for automatic warning signals at the Perkins Street crossing has been denied by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission (PSC).

The city petitioned the PSC for additional protection at the southwest side crossing Nov. 11, 1965 and a hearing was held here Dec. 13, 1965.

While denying the city's request, the PSC did order the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. to remove brush and trees located within 1,000 feet of the tracks.

It said removal of the brush will "promote public safety."

Switching Yard

Ald. John MacDonald (7th) had pressed for automatic signals at the crossing which is in the area where the railroad has established a switching yard.

Protection at the crossing now consists of two advance warning and two reflectorized crossing signs.

The crossing includes two yard, a passing and the main line tracks.

The yard tracks, constructed last year, are part of the North Western's proposal to move the

The PSC said the maximum speed for eastbound trains is 30 miles per hour.

Maximum speed for westbound trains is 70 miles per hour for passenger trains and 50 for freights.

"However, since there are speed restrictions for a short distance east of the crossing the actual speeds are about 40 miles per hour for passenger trains and 20 miles per hour for freights," the PSC said.

"These speeds are in accordance with the railroad company's timetable," the PSC added. Noting the new yard location will result in increased freight car switching activity at the Perkins Street crossing, the PSC said the railroad's rules call for a flagman.

Gilbert - Sullivan's 'Iolanthe' Capably Given by Skylight Ltd.

BY JAMES AUER
Post-Crescent Sunday Editor

Good things do, indeed, seem to come in pairs.

In January the Lawrence University Opera Company presented an effervescent production of Gilbert and Sullivan's spectral satire, "Ruddigore," first offered in London in 1887.

And Saturday evening, in Stansbury auditorium of the Lawrence University Music-Drama Center, Milwaukee's Skylight Opera Co. Ltd. afforded Fox Cities theatergoers an opportunity to see another of G. and S.' vintage collaborations, "Iolanthe; or The Peer and the Peri."

Curiously enough, both "Ruddigore" and "Iolanthe" were, in the authors' lifetimes, ranked among Gilbert and Sullivan's lesser achievements. "Ruddigore," laboring under what one biographer has termed a "witch's curse" of the very sort to be found in the plot, ran for only 288 performances and was something of a critical disappointment as well.

Similarly, "Iolanthe" which had a London run of 14 months, proved relatively unpopular in stock.

Yet both works have, in our century, been "rehabilitated" as prime examples of the G. and S. genius, and are preferred productions of companies which, like Skylight, specialize in comic opera.

Unlike the Lawrence group, which worked in the drama center's experimental theater, the Skylight company presented its "Iolanthe" on the main proscenium stage. Perhaps as a result, the Clair Richardson production seemed more deliberately paced, more self-consciously directed at the audience than the Lawrence offering.

James Billings, who doubles as star and stage director, can be credited with a major share

Spanish course designed as a review for pupils who have already had some Spanish; as a survey course for those who feel they may have some interest in a foreign language, and as a prerequisite for those with no previous experience who wish to take it as an elective in the ninth grade the next school year.

Remedial physical education will be provided for those whose physical abilities or inhibitions hold them back in regular classes. The course will include conditioning, skill development and application. Pre and post test procedures will be followed as a means of evaluating the program.

Concepts of Algebra

The basic concepts and usages of algebra will be offered to three primary groups: students wishing to review or strengthen their algebra; an introduction for those who have had difficulty in math but want to enter the future lower middle classes; and for those who want to take geometry in the ninth grade.

A personal typing course will be offered to ninth graders only who wish to develop their speed and ability and to those who want to enrich their program. A total of 750 pupils will be able to enroll in the courses and 16 instructors will be needed if all the courses materialize.

Cast as the Lord Chancellor, a key figure in a typically complex Gilbertian plot about fairies, English peers, Arcadian shepherd folk and frustrated romance, Billings proves that he is accomplished with a patter song, and a deft visual comedian as well.

His stage direction is serviceable and unpretentious, though he is occasionally inclined to exploit the broad gesture and obvious laugh at the expense of Gilbert's subtler satiric overtones.

Pat Zapt, cast as Phyllis, an Arcadian shepherdess and ward in chancery, provides an attractive romantic match for Strephon (played by Karr Wolfe), the Arcadian shepherd whose troubles devolve from the fact that he is half mortal, half fairy.

Artis Lewis proves a veritable astral Brunnhilde as the queen of the fairies, and Jo Anne Kane is vocally and visually appealing as Iolanthe, Strephon's mother, who has been banished for 25 years by the Fairy Queen as punishment for marrying a mortal.

Charles Koehn's hearty voice and unabashed mugging won the undisguised approval of the Appleton audience as Private Willis, of the Grenadier Guards, while Marguerite James, Joan Bielfeld and Suzanne Scott scammed about the stage in tights and leotards as the principal fairies.

As always at "Iolanthe" per formances, the chorus of dukes, marquises and earls, headed in wishing to review or strengthen properly supercilious fashion by their algebra; an introduction for those who have had difficulty in math but want to enter the future lower middle classes; and for those who want to take geometry in the ninth grade.

Mike McDonald's two major sets were effective, considering the demands of a touring, and unadorned mugging won the approval of the Appleton audience as Private Willis, of the Grenadier Guards, while Marguerite James, Joan Bielfeld and Suzanne Scott scammed about the stage in tights and leotards as the principal fairies.

NEENAH — Menasha's Don Steffin and Kimberly's John Reider were unanimous choices on the All-Mid-Eastern conference basketball squad selected by coaches. Both players are maximum 14 points.

Because of a tie, six players were named to the first team. Others included Neenah's Gary Losse, Gary Van Cuyk, Kimberly, Mike Pasch, Clintonville, and Pat Kavanaugh, Kaukauna.

Pasch, Kavanaugh and E. J. Streu, Two Rivers, all received nine votes. But Pasch and Kavanaugh had the same number of first place points — and under conference by-laws, were included on the first squad.

Losse was runnerup in the voting with 12 points, Van Cuyk had 11.

Joining Streu on the second unit were Bob Van Gompel, Kimberly, eight points, Tom VanDerhyden, Menasha, seven;

Heavy Winds Force Second Postponement Of Ski-Jumping Test

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. — The national ski-jumping championships are to Iron Mountain and Kingsford, Mich. what the championship football game is to Green Bay, so the long faces here were understandable when winds up to 40 miles an hour forced a second postponement of the meet Sunday. The jumps were called off Saturday when the winds gusted up to 20 miles an hour at the take-off of the Pine Mountain slide and had to be called off again when they doubled in intensity Sunday morning.

Some 25,000 spectators were predicted for the Sunday meet, each expected to spend an average of $10 in the Iron Mountain area. Several thousand were waiting in the parking lot below the mammoth artificial jump Sunday morning when the official announcement was made.

Two meets had been scheduled for a doubleheader yesterday, the Nationals in the morning and the Kiwanis Invitational in the afternoon which includes jumpers from foreign countries.

The tournament committee hoped to squeeze in both meets today. The crucial meet is the Northeastern Wisconsin conference in scoring for two years.

Messmer Trims Edgewood For State Catholic Title

Johnson, Oszewski Star In Championship Game; Regis Tips Marshfield for Fourth Place

By KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Tall and tough Milwaukee Messmer, a team that thrives on the edge of disaster, has clawed its way back from the brink and captured its first Wisconsin state Catholic high school basketball championship.

The Bishops, behind 19-11 and reeling against a game but outmanned Madison Edgewood team Sunday, sprang back to win going away 68-46.

John Johnson, Messmer's 6-foot-5 center, grabbed 24 rebounds and racked up 21 points but just as valuable to the Bishops' cause was the unheralded Jim Oszewski who scored 24 points.

"We knew Johnson would hurt us," said Coach George Chryst of Edgewood, "but Oszewski won it for them."

Took Third Place

Eau Claire Regis, which had Messmer beaten in Saturday's semifinal until the final two seconds, took third place honors with a 69-48 win Sunday over fourth-place Marshfield Columbus. Fifth place went to St. Catherine of Racine, consolation round victors over Milwaukee Don Bosco 56-48 in a Sunday morning game.

Messmer escaped against Regis on a Bob Woolfork tip in 48 seconds. Sunday the Bishops' problem was how to escape from Edgewood's Tim Sweeney, who threatened to beat them single handedly.

The alert and agile Sweeney gave the Crusaders their first lead at 3-2 with a three-point play, then matched Johnson's jump shot for jump shot as he scored all of the Crusaders' first nine points. But Sweeney was heading for foul trouble.

Karl Rohlich sank a long set shot and Johnson's tournament standout countered with another jump and the score was 11-11.

Fifth Basket

Sweeney then added a jump for his fifth basket in seven shots. Dick Reynolds put in two free throws. Sweeney came back with another jump and Rohlich sank a long set shot and Messmer was trailing 19-11.

But the shots that swished the nets in the Crusaders' first two tournament games had stopped falling through. Oszewski scored his first basket—a jump shot.

John Ziebell added a free throw and Johnson added two more to bring the Bishops back within three points at 19-16. John Verhelst banked a free throw to restore a four-point lead but Oszewski matched that.

He had been fouled by Sweeney and an ominous moan arose from the ranks of Edgewood supporters as the big black No. 3 was raised aloft at the scorers' table.

Seconds later Sweeney was on the bench and Messmer had regained the lead 24-23 on a three-point shot.

Columbus Loses To Regis, 69-48, In Third Place Tilt

MILWAUKEE (AP) — John Johnson and Bob Woolfork of the champion Milwaukee Messmer Bishops were named Sunday to the Wisconsin state Catholic high school basketball tournament all-star team.

Madison Edgewood, which lost to Messmer in the tournament finals, 68-46, placed three men on the team. Tim Sweeney, Rod Uphoff and Dick Reynolds.

Eau Claire Regis, the third place team, placed Dan Fisher and Bill Jochum. Rounding out the 10-man squad were Bobby Koch of Marshfield Columbus, Gary Grzesk of Milwaukee Don Bosco and John George of Racine St. Catherine.

Smaller Schools Battle Giants as State Meet Enters Sub-Sectionals

Unbeaten Altoona Faces Stiff Test Against Memorial 'S'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ambitious Davids, led by Deerfield and Altoona, are arming their slings for shots Tuesday night at the giants of the 51st Wisconsin high school basketball tournament.

Altoona (21-0), one of five unbeaten teams left and ranked No. 2 among the state's smaller schools, tangles with 19-5 runnerup Eau Claire Memorial (17-4) while Deerfield (18-2) collides with top-ranked Madison East (20-0) in features among 32 games in sub-sectional play.

Milwaukee Lincoln (19-1), seeking its fourth state title in eight years, must meet strong

West Allis Hale (17-3), and New Holstein (19-0) faces Fond du Lac (14-6) among the few showdowns between crown contenders.

The sub-sectional round, generally putting small school powers against the more muscular winners of large school regionals, will trim the field to size for this weekend's sectionals.

Survivors to Madison

The eight survivors of the week will meet at Madison March 17-18-19 in the finals to decide a successor to defending champion Monroe, the major casualty of Saturday night's regional championship games.

Stoughton (13-8) with a balanced scoring attack took an eight-point lead into the final period against Monroe (12-8) and kept command to eliminate the cheese-makers 65-61 at Fort Atkinson.

It was Monroe last year that disposed of the reigning titlist, Dodgeville, in the opening week, but Stoughton is considered unlikely to follow up the feat with the same success the cheese-makers had. The Vikings collide Tuesday night at Edgerton with No. 6 Monona Grove (18-2), an 85-74 victor over Middleton.

Madison East pointed toward a possible Beloit sectional rendezvous with Monona Grove and No. 9 Platteville (19-1), faces Deerfield ranked ninth among the smaller schools in the Janesville sub-sectional.

Disposed of Beloit

East disposed of five-time state champion Beloit 63-56 Saturday night after building a 19-point first-period lead when the knights failed to make a field one-point tournament, we began.

If there's something like a long in it," said Coach John Erickson.

The game was the final home appearance for six seniors who will close out their careers tonight — Morenz, Barnes, Ken Gustafson, Mark Zubor, Dave Roberts and Tom Gardner. The Badgers wound up their Big Ten home schedule with a respectable 5-2 record.

They will take an abominable 0-6 conference road record into the finale tonight at Minnesota.

New Lisbon (18-3), another of the better small schools will face fourth-ranked Baraboo (19-1) after edging Brookwood 90-87 Saturday night as the Rockets' Tom Andres blistered the nets for 57 points, top production of the tournament so far.

Baraboo, 67-40 conqueror of Mauston, will be host for the sub-sectional game.

New Holstein, rated No. 7, swamped Keshiwa 95-45 to set up its date at Sheboygan with Fond du Lac, winner of the first

Messmer's Oszewski Real Key to Victory in WCIAA Title Contest

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Jim Oszewski, a 6-foot-1 senior forward, had been one of the unspectacular of the Wisconsin state Catholic high school basketball tournament.

But Sunday he was sharing laurels with the spectacular John Johnson after leading Milwaukee Messmer to a 68-46 victory over Madison Edgewood in the tourney finals.

"It was the best game he's played all year," said Messmer Coach Robert Neja. "This was his third season as a starter and to tell the truth he was kind of a disappointment all year."

"It was a wonderful way to end it for him."

Oszewski scored 24 points most of them on driving layups as he taught Edgewood it doesn't pay to concentrate too heavily on Johnson.

The Crusaders' desperate to keep Johnson in check after the 6-foot-5 center had scored 16 points in the first half, resorted to a zone defense that overshifted around Johnson.

Oszewski found himself alone and unnoticed in a corner and made the most of his opportunities. He scored six baskets in the second half, all on layups. "Oszewski Won It."

"We knew Johnson would hurt us," said George Chryst, the Edgewood coach. "But Oszewski won it for them. Before the game, it seemed to be just Johnson we had to worry about."

There was no particular reason to notice Oszewski before Sunday. In two previous tournament games, Oszewski had contributed a grand total of 16 points and had made only seven of 25 field goal attempts.

Neja had been impressed with Edgewood's play in the tournament, which featured a smooth attack directed by Rod Uphoff, a 15-year-old sophomore.

"We knew we'd have to play a real good ball game to beat them," Neja said, "and our kids played real fine basketball for the last three quarters."

Neja said he was concerned with Uphoff's drives and ordered a zone defense to cut them off. "It did it," he said.

"More Effective"

"By Sunday they knew what Uphoff could do," Chryst said, acknowledging that the zone defense hurt. "Uphoff is more effective against a man to man when he can maneuver. But also he was not as much a surprise by Sunday."

Uphoff and John Verhelst had been inserted in the starting lineup during regional tournament play. Uphoff was held to only seven points Sunday. He had averaged 17.5 in the first two games.

Chryst maintained that the foul trouble that forced Tim Sweeney to the bench late in the first half was the turning point. Neja wasn't taking anything away from Sweeney, who scored 24 points, but said the Messmer troubles in the first quarter stemmed from a slow adjustment.

"After that the kids finally adjusted," he said.

Chicago Loyola In NCAA Playoff Contest Tonight

BY HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
And then there were none. Like the gold medal cigar, songs that rhyme moon and June, and Edsel autos, college basketball's last two undefeated teams faded quietly away over the weekend.

But Adolph Rupp and Don Haskins expect to have Kentucky and Texas Western back making plenty of noise in the NCAA playoffs which open tonight.

Both the Wildcats, ranked No. 1, and the second-rated Miners had 23-game winning streaks snapped Saturday and both Rupp and Haskins, while disappointed, nipped the defeats would teach their teams lessons. Kentucky backed into Rupp's 22nd Southeastern Conference crown when Vanderbilt dropped a 92-90 decision to Mississippi State while the Wildcats were being upset by Tennessee 69-62.

Meet Tulane

Kentucky completes its regular schedule with a meaningless SEC game against Tulane tonight. Then Rupp has until Friday to repair his club's confidence for the Wildcats' NCAA playoff debut against the winner of tonight's Dayton Miami of Ohio battle, one of two Midwest Regionals scheduled for Kent Ohio. Chicago Loyola takes on Western Kentucky in the other Haskins had less time to regroup Texas Western. The Miners dropped a 74-72 decision at Seattle Saturday night and come right back tonight against Oklahoma City in the Midwest Regional at Wichita. Houston plays Colorado State in the other Midwest game.

In tonight's other NCAA playoff doubleheader, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia takes on Providence and Davidson meets Rhode Island in the Eastern Regional at Blacksburg, Va.

Duke Wins

In other weekend action, Duke captured the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, overcoming North Carolina's freeze to win 21-20 Friday night and then whipping North Carolina State 71-66. The Blue Devils take on tonight's St. Joseph's Providence winner Friday. Michigan clinched its third straight Big Ten crown by downing Northwestern 105-92 behind Cazzie Russell's 48 points. The Wolverines, who reached the NCAA finals last season, open their tournament play against the Chicago Loyola Western Kentucky winner.

Back In Lineup

Matters went from bad to worse for Edgewood after intermission even though Sweeney was back in the lineup. Down by nine points at half time, 36-27, Edgewood soon trailed by 19 at 55-36 as Wolf, fork popped away over the heads of the Edgewood zone and Oszewski cut in behind it with driving lavaps.

Sweeney, who finished with 24 points, scored eight in the third period. The whole Edgewood team scored 11.

Neja, a cautious man, was taking no chances as the Bishops built a 20-point lead at 63-43 with four minutes to play in the game. He ordered his players to stall. Finally with 48 seconds left, Neja began clearing his bench.

"Our kids came to play ball," said Christ when it was over. "They played up to their ability and maybe they even played over their ability."

Messmer Gets Berths on All-Tourney '5'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bill Jochum matched Bobby Koch's 29 points with 29 points of his own and carried Eau Claire (Regis) to a 69-48 victory Sunday over Marshfield Columbus and third place in the Wisconsin state Catholic high school basketball tournament.

Racine St. Catherine led by John George's 17 points, defeated Milwaukee Don Bosco 56-48 to capture fifth place.

Koch, an all-state football player, jacked his three game scoring total to 73 points to win the tournament scoring championship.

WIAA title in 1916 and a repeater three times since. Plattville beat Cuba City 48-37 and will be host to Gratiot (10-11), one of three regional winners to approach sub-sectional play with a losing record. One of them West Milwaukee (16-14) won only three games during the regular season but staged a 59-52 upset Saturday over well-respected Hales Corners Whitnall (18-3).

Memorial Shares 10th

Eau Claire Memorial sharing the 10th berth in the ratings with Barron (20-1), swept over St. Croix Central 88-54 Saturday night while the Bears were avenging their only loss of the season by edging Ladysmith (11-9) in overtime 66-63.

Whips Bloomer

Altoona earned its shot at Eau Claire Memorial by whipping Bloomer 71-57. Wausau (20-1) and Orfordville (20-1) tied as No. 5 in the Little Ten." also advanced along with No. 7 Manawa (20-1) and No. 8 Winneconne (18-2).

Wausauke averaged its only loss of the regular season by sidelining Niagara 63-71. Manawa had to break a last minute tie with five free throws to edge Coleman 57-52 at Bondue.

Onalaska provided a clue to the trouble some of the smaller schools may provide in the sub-sectionals by storming from behind to take the lead in the fourth quarter before finally yielding 75-73 to tough La Crosse Central (18-5) Saturday night.

But Unity (18-5) which had upset 1963 third place finisher Cumberland was ripped apart by River Falls (20-1) at Amery 75-45.

La Crosse Central faces Fairchild (18-3) Tuesday night 1963 champion Manitowish (14-6) takes on Mishicot (17-3). River Falls meets Clear Lake (15-4) and Wisconsin Rapids (15-6) in other sub-sectional games matching big and little powers.

Disqualification Still Bothers Doug Sanders

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Doug Sanders, chastened at almost out of reach, cost him $25,000 demanded today that the affairs of the Professional Golfers Association be put in the hands of a $70,000-a-year czar.

"We are a $4-million business run by people making $17,000 a year," he said. "If you pay $17,000 you get a $17,000 man. We need a big business man to run the show."

The 32-year-old Sanders, from Ojai, Calif., made no attempt to hide the bitterness he felt from his ouster Saturday for failure to sign his scorecard after he had shot four strokes into the lead of the $65,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Removal of Sanders — still a center of hot controversy — sent Gav Brewer Jr., of Dallas, Tex., to the front of the pro golf pack and Brewer responded with a third-round 67 Sunday that put Green Bay on championship weekend. The local taverns were 4-deep at the bars, and the dance floors made Packer scrimmages look like minuets.

School children were ordered back to school on the proviso that if the jumps became "go" this morning, they would be let out. Girls were told at some schools they could wear slacks.

All fingers were crossed and meet officials brightened somewhat at the forecast for record wind this morning.

One prime worry was what to do with all the ingredients for the pasties — a local kind of meat pie sold hot from jump side stands — that 25,000 people had been expected to eat.

Canadiens Lose Laperriere for Rest of Season

MONTREAL (AP) — All-star defenseman Jacques Laperriere of Montreal underwent an operation on his left knee Sunday and is out for the rest of the National Hockey League season and two other Canadiens are sidelined with leg ailments.

A club spokesman said Laperriere suffered torn ligaments in his knee in the team's 7-2 victory over Detroit Saturday night. Early reports indicated he probably will miss the post season Stanley Cup playoffs.

Jean-Guy Talbot, another defenseman, and center Henri Richard also suffered knee injuries against Detroit and will be out of action for about a week, the spokesman said.

Noel Price, a defenseman for the Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League, was called up as an immediate replacement and will be with the team for its game in Chicago Sunday.

Helen Kettner Slams 545 Set

Helen Kettner slammed a 545 threesome to set the pace in the Greenville Women's League at Hortonville Lanes. Sally Weil, 203 and 502 were the only other honor tallies.

Joy DeBral rolled a 199 game for the lone honor score in the Flower League at the 41 Bowl.

Before taking off for Texas, Sanders leveled a blast at the PGA for what he called loose handling of tournament procedures

"It's true I pulled a blunder by not signing my card, but how big a sin is that?" Sanders said. "I checked my card three times to make sure I had the right score. It seems we should be responsible only for the final score."

The colorful former University of Florida ace, who was seeking his third title here, said he was not given consideration for the circumstances surrounding his ousting.

"I had played the back nine first and finished on No. 9," he said. "There was no official tent or table to go to hand in my card. Somebody grabbed it. People were yelling, photographers were snapping pictures, kids were asking for autographs, and they were telling me I should rush to the press room."

"Under these conditions, how could anybody keep a sane head on his shoulders?"

The disqualification, Sanders said, punctured the finest start he had ever made on the golf tour.

U. S. Hockey Coach Eyes Russian Method

(AP) — The U. S. hockey team, should be able to win a place in its hopes of a strong showing in the world championships in 1969, the World Championships dashed, is thinking about preparing if they are revamped.

The reference to the reorganization concerns a plan put forward by John F. Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, who wants a world championship pool of five teams.

The United States, which entered the championships buoyed by an exhibition victory over Marshall Tschida of St. Paul, Canada, was beaten 6-1 by Munn, got the U. S. goal Sweden Sunday after having against Sweden early in the third period on a pass from Larry Stordahl of Rouseau, Minn.

The Americans now have an 0-3 record and their next opponent is Czechoslovakia on Thursday.

"I have my eye on the 1968-69, Iowa, kicked the puck into the net late in the first period. In other Sunday games, Russia, who wants to concentrate on the U. S. national team in a 0-0, Canada, defeated past Finland hockey-conscious city such as 9-1 and Czechoslovakia defeated Minneapolis, find them jobs and Poland 6-1.

have them play 30 or 40 games a year. Russia, Canada and Czechoslovakia all have 3-0 records, but the Russians lead because they have scored 29 goals to just one plays about 150 games a year for the opposition. Canada's goal spread is 22-3 and Czechoslovakia's 20-3.

By DAVE O'RAHA
BOSTON (AP) — Philadelphia had a decided edge today in a bid to end Boston's perennial domination in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division as the smarting Celtics cried "foul" over the antics of 76er ace Wilt Chamberlain.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, the NBA's all-time scoring king, connected for 32 points and grabbed 30 rebounds Sunday in leading the 76ers to a 113-110 victory over the Celtics and a sweep of a home-and-home weekend series.

"I've never said anything about this before, but I've got to speak about Chamberlain now," Boston's retiring coach, Red Auerbach, said. "I never have seen a man so big and strong get the protection he gets."

Lifetime Pass
Auerbach, who joked at half-time after receiving a gold lifetime pass from NBA President Walter Kennedy, was in no laughing mood after his Celtics slipped one-half game behind Philadelphia in their drive for a 10th straight Eastern title and an eighth consecutive league championship.

"Chamberlain is a great basketball player, but why don't the officials call him on the three-second rule and traveling?" Auerbach said. "He hops and hops all over, stands in the middle and pushes in off the boards. And he can back in all he wants."

"Ask (Bill) Russell, who was almost pushed out of the building. Just how can a player like Wilt get three personals in two weekend games?"

Chamberlain, who led the 76ers to a 102-85 romp over the Celtics in Philadelphia Saturday night, had a wide edge in another duel with Russell, who scored only eight points and grabbed 20 rebounds before fouling out with just under two minutes remaining.

Last 5 Points
Chamberlain hit for 10 field goals and cashed 12 of 25 free throws while playing man-to-man against Russell. With Boston in front, Wilt took charge and scored the 76ers' last five points, including a pair of free throws with nine seconds left.

In other games Sunday, Cincinnati beat Detroit 137-125, St. Louis whipped New York 119-106 and Los Angeles turned back Baltimore 126-105.

The Lakers clinched at least a tie for the Western Division title by taking a seven-game lead over runner-up Baltimore with seven games to play. Elgin Baylor topped Los Angeles with a season high for him of 37 points.

Athletes' Soft Treatment At Notre Dame Discounted

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Charges by a campus newspaper that University of Notre Dame athletes are getting soft treatment in the classroom were discounted Sunday by school officials as an effort to build up criticism.

Steve Feldhaus, 21, editor of The Voice newest of two student papers, took the stand in a Feb. 10 editorial and said a second editorial is planned because of "unreversed reactions."

Feldhaus, a junior government major from Lawrenceburg, Tenn., said he is not opposed to sports but that "big time athletics perhaps doesn't have a place in a major university."

He said 84 of 100 Notre Dame students he interviewed agreed that "some athletes are getting away with more than they should" in the classroom.

The editor of the twice-weekly publication said overemphasis of sports many times points to trouble and cited violations against the honor code at Notre Dame, adding "I think it's become a dead thing."

Many Scholars
"My point is not to blame the athletes," he said. "What I said doesn't hold true for all athletes because many are scholars."

Roger Valdisseri, sports information director, said he made a check of grades and found those of athletes in keeping with the student body average.

"I checked three classes that he mentioned," Valdisseri said. "Two of them had more than 100 students. There were seven athletes in one and five in another — and not all of them had pluses or minuses."

"In the third class there were 12 athletes among 88 students. That might be a little high, but I don't think it establishes preferential treatment for students."

Feldhaus had said athletes were given preference over other students in getting into classes with certain professors.

James E. Murphy, director of public relations, said The Voice had "run some articles in the past that were partly inaccurate and therefore we take them in stride."

"A new editorial staff took over at the start of the semester," Valdisseri reported, "and day after day after 12 noon at the I think they were just trying to church until the hour of the attract attention."

Sunday's Results

Toronto 3, Boston 2
Detroit 1, New York 1

CHICAGO (AP)—Gump Worsley, the Montreal Canadiens' 36-year-old goalie, is pro enough to know that records are made to be broken, but he wouldn't have any of Bobby Hull's antics when the chips were down Sunday night.

Worsley blanked Hull and the Chicago Black Hawks 1-0 to help lift the Canadiens into a commanding three-point lead in the National Hockey League with the race heading for the finish line.

"It was a big win and he had a lot to do with it," said Montreal Coach Toe Blake as he pointed to Worsley.

The Canadiens won the pivotal game on a goal by Claude LaRose at 10:05 of the second period, but the victory really belonged to Worsley, who turned back 33 Chicago shots including five by Hull, who was seeking a record 51st goal.

"You don't want him to break a record against you unless you win the game," said the Gumpier. "I know how it is. He scored his 50th against me to tie the record in 1962 when I was with New York."

"If Hull would have scored tonight in a 1-0 game, then that would be something else. But he didn't," sighed Worsley. "You always try your best. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't."

The Hawks, who have now been shut out on successive nights by Toronto and Montreal, don't feel that Hull's quest for the record has anything to do with the team's play.

"I'd say the guys were bending backwards to get me the 50th goal," said Hull. "But not anymore. We're just trying to win. Well, we lost two straight and a lot of factors enter into that but not my going for the record."

In other games, Toronto beat Boston 5-3 and Detroit and New York played a 1-1 tie.

Athletes' Soft Treatment At Notre Dame Discounted

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Charges by a campus newspaper that University of Notre Dame athletes are getting soft treatment in the classroom were discounted Sunday by school officials as an effort to build up criticism.

Steve Feldhaus, 21, editor of The Voice newest of two student papers, took the stand in a Feb. 10 editorial and said a second editorial is planned because of "unreversed reactions."

Feldhaus, a junior government major from Lawrenceburg, Tenn., said he is not opposed to sports but that "big time athletics perhaps doesn't have a place in a major university."

He said 84 of 100 Notre Dame students he interviewed agreed that "some athletes are getting away with more than they should" in the classroom.

The editor of the twice-weekly publication said overemphasis of sports many times points to trouble and cited violations against the honor code at Notre Dame, adding "I think it's become a dead thing."

Many Scholars
"My point is not to blame the athletes," he said. "What I said doesn't hold true for all athletes because many are scholars."

Roger Valdisseri, sports information director, said he made a check of grades and found those of athletes in keeping with the student body average.

"I checked three classes that he mentioned," Valdisseri said. "Two of them had more than 100 students. There were seven athletes in one and five in another — and not all of them had pluses or minuses."

"In the third class there were 12 athletes among 88 students. That might be a little high, but I don't think it establishes preferential treatment for students."

Feldhaus had said athletes were given preference over other students in getting into classes with certain professors.

James E. Murphy, director of public relations, said The Voice had "run some articles in the past that were partly inaccurate and therefore we take them in stride."

"A new editorial staff took over at the start of the semester," Valdisseri reported, "and day after day after 12 noon at the I think they were just trying to church until the hour of the attract attention."

Measures Opposing Widening Of Viet Nam War Are Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economic and military assistance to any nation cannot be construed as a commitment to defend that nation with armed forces.

Also Rejected

After considering a letter from Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the committee voted 13 to 6 to reject an amendment by chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. Rusk said approval of the measure or the furnishing of

Desegregation Guidelines Are Announced

New Rules Outline Freedom of Choice School Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — New guidelines which "require actual desegregation" in the staffs of public schools which have had dual school systems were announced by the government today.

The new guidelines also, in the words of Harold Howe II, U.S. commissioner of education, "spell out that the intent of freedom of choice plans is to break down a dual system of schools and establish a single system of schools for all students in a community without regard to race, color, or national origins."

Another new requirement is that school authorities make progress in closing of small, inadequate schools established for Negro students or other minority groups.

Periodic Reports

Simplified procedures require periodic reports from school districts to measure progress in carrying out desegregation plans.

"It is the responsibility of the school system," Howe said in a statement, "to insure that any freedom of choice plan adopted by a district accomplishes the breakdown of any dual school system."

Simultaneously, Surgeon General William H. Stewart of the Public Health Service announced specific steps to assure compliance in the health and medical fields with the anti-discrimination provision of Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Allied Forces Destroy 2,000-Man Red Unit

U. S. Marines End First Year in Viet Nam With Defeat of Big Regiment

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — Artillery and air strikes softened up the enemy.

The U.S. Marines up the enemy brought their first year in Viet Nam to a thunderous finish today by joining with crack South Vietnamese troops to shatter a 2,000-man North Vietnamese regiment.

Nearly 1,000 Communists were said to have fallen before the combined air-ground assault by 6,000 Leathernecks, government paratroopers and rangers in three days of blistering fighting, that the Marines called their roughest action—and best showing of the war.

The fierce battle tapered off into a mop-up operation today, with the Marines and Vietnamese troops in pursuit of small bands of Red survivors. Prisoners said the regiment had been in South Viet Nam only a month since it filtered down from the North by the jungled Ho Chi Minh Trail, Allied spokesmen reported.

Costly Victory

But the victory was costly for the Allies. Marine officers told correspondents at the battle scene along the central coast that the Marines took their heaviest losses of any single battle in Viet Nam, although over-all Marine casualties were described as light. The toll came in the initial assault on Friday.

Eleven helicopters were hit by the Communists and two knocked down. The withering Red fire also forced down a Marine Phantom jet. The two crewmen ejected safely offshore. The intelligence information that enabled the Allied force to trap the Red regiment was provided by two North Vietnamese soldiers captured by government troops at the beginning of the month. They disclosed that the North Vietnamese regiment's mission was to cut Route 1, the strategic coastal highway, by mining it and blowing up a bridge.

Operation Utah

The Marines launched Operation Utah with their Vietnamese allies Friday. Some troops dropped into the valley by helicopter, others pushed in by road.

Johnson Asks Pay Raises for Civil Servants

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to approve an average pay increase of 3.2 per cent, including fringe benefits, for federal civilian employees.

In a message to Congress, Johnson said direct salary increases will average 2.8 per cent. The remainder would be for fringe benefits.

Johnson estimated the cost of the pay increases, to become effective next Jan. 1, at $485 million a year.

Rescue Crews Cut Through Deep Snow Across Dakotas

16 Deaths Attributed to Storm; Called Worst Blizzard in Decades

FARGO, N. D. (AP) — Road-plowing crews and rescue missions began bringing relief today to blizzard-battered parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

The toll of deaths stood at 16. Ranchers were counting up a heavy loss of livestock, especially in South Dakota. Helicopters and airplanes, bulldozers and plows worked to relieve thousands stranded in what has been termed the Dakotas' worst such storm in decades.

Travelers who had taken refuge in stores, cafes, services stations, or homes continued their journeys.

Stories of human kindness and heroic effort came out of the chill, snow-swept land.

Like the North Dakota farm boy, Oren Auck, of rural Sterling, who scanned the whitened countryside and got worried when he didn't see smoke coming out of a neighbor's chimney.

The 12-year-old boy put on his coat and overshoes and trudged through deep snowdrifts to the farm of Lowell Brown, who lived alone. There, he found the 65-year-old farmer dead, his body draped over a windmill brace in the yard — a victim of the blizzard which lashed the Dakotas three days last week.

Vignettes like this were commonplace as rural and city folk alike fought for survival against the storm.

Livestock Losses

Six of the storm deaths occurred in South Dakota and five each in North Dakota and Minnesota.

There was a staggering loss in cattle and sheep — perhaps running in the millions of dollars.

One rancher, Frank Maciejewski Sr. of Timber Lake, S. D., estimated his at $100,000. "I had 400 to 500 cattle and the same number of sheep," he said. "The cattle bunched up next to a shed in a feedlot and smothered. The sheep got smothered, too, in those deep drifts."

"One of my neighbors lost 150 cows in a corral and another lost 100. A couple of barns collapsed under the snow on other ranches and killed some cows.

Open Roads

In both states, work crews pushed around the clock to open up roads clogged with drifts up to 25 feet deep.

The North Dakota Highway Patrol reported officers had rescued 55 persons from stranded cars. Lt. Gov. Charles Tighe, acting for vacationing Gov. William Guy of North Dakota, said Sunday, "Our helicopters are doing a good job."

"Saturday night we picked up a child and a woman on separate farms. They had pneumonia. Today we're going after two children with frostbitten feet," Tighe said.

Guy, who had been in Arizona, arrived home Sunday and planned an aerial survey today.

Signal for Help

G. Mennen Williams

Quits as Secretary
For African Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — G. Mennen Williams resigned today as assistant secretary of state for African affairs to run for the Senate from Michigan.

Williams' resignation will become effective March 23.

In accepting Williams' resignation in a "Dear Soapy" letter President Johnson said:

"Despite the fact that your decision rests upon your reasonable and understandable desire to serve the public in elective office once more, I am nevertheless deeply regretful that we will not have your fine and steady hand in critical assignments which your have discharged so well and faithfully, under the leadership of both President Kennedy and myself."

Conservatives Get Majority In Austria

Klaus Deciding on Coalition With Socialist Party

VIENNA (AP) — Chancellor Josef Klaus and other leaders of his Conservative People's party discussed today whether to man the government alone or continue the coalition with the Socialists which has governed Austria since the war.

In national elections Sunday, the Conservatives for the first time won a majority in Parliament. They picked up four more seats for a total of 85 in the 165-seat lower chamber.

The Socialists slipped from 75 to 74 seats and the right-wing Freedom party from 8 to 6.

The Democratic Progress party of former Socialist Interior Minister Franz Olah failed to make the grade. Olah lost his independent seat but made inroads on the Socialists in vital areas.

The Communists, who supported the Socialist candidates in 24 election districts, were defeated in their only try for a seat from downtown Vienna.

Although Klaus is no longer dependent on the Socialists for a majority, the tradition of coalition government has become so strong there is considerable pressure for its continuance.

Klaus gave no indication of his plans for the new government but described the election result as a "clear-cut rejection of the Socialist-Communist popular front."

The Socialist party chief, Vice Chancellor Bruno Pittermann, has indicated readiness to join Klaus in a new coalition. The two parties divided the Cabinet posts evenly in previous governments. If he is ready for a new coalition, Klaus is certain to insist on at least one more ministry for his party.

Lengthy Murder Trial

Candace Mossler, Nephew Acquitted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler set out today, as she put it, to mother a brood of adored children and to "pick up the pieces" of a $33-million business.

She was asked in the presence of her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, following their acquittal Sunday in the 1964 slaying of her multimillionaire husband.

"Mrs. Mossler, will you and Mel Powers be married?"

In a little girl voice, normal for her but tinged it seemed with a trace of vexation, Mrs. Mossler with her children behind her, replied at a news conference:

"We don't have any intentions in that direction."

Pair Acquitted

Union between aunt and nephew is generally forbidden by American law, although it would be possible outside the United States. Florida law prohibits marriage between blood aunt and nephew.

Less than three hours earlier Mrs. Mossler and Powers had been acquitted by an all-male jury of the brutal slaying of her husband, Jacques Mossler, 69.

He was gray, slender, and, in the words of the state, stood in the way of an incestuous love affair between his wife and her nephew. The defendants, if convicted, could have gone to the electric chair.

Behind Mrs. Mossler and Powers at the unusual news conference in a downtown Miami hotel were Mrs. Mossler's two blonde grown children by her first marriage, and the four attractive youngsters she and Jacques Mossler adopted during their marriage.

Eventual Disposal

Most of them figured in the eventual disposal of Mossler's $33-million banking and loan business.

"By July the entire estate should be distributed," said Mrs. Mossler's chief attorney, Clyde Woody.

Mrs. Mossler, sensitive about her age, places it at 40. Powers is 29.

"I just want to thank everybody," Powers said at the news conference. He said he would go back to Houston, Tex., in a few days.

Key Sections Backed

U. S. Supreme Court Upholds Voting Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today key sections of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

The high tribunal upheld the power of Congress under the Constitution's 15th Amendment to suspend state literacy tests and similar voting qualifications, and to authorize the attorney general to appoint federal examiners to register qualified voters in various sections of the country.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, in the majority opinion, dismissed a Deep South attack on constitutionality of the act.

"We hold," Warren said, "that the sections of the act which are properly before us are an appropriate means for carrying out Congress' constitutional responsibilities and are consonant with all other provisions of the constitution."

Justice Hugo L. Black wrote a separate opinion concurring in part and dissenting in part.

Warren's opinion declared:

"Hopefully, millions of non-white Americans will now be able to participate for the first time on an equal basis in the government under which they live. We may finally look forward to the day when truly the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude."

Warren's quotation was of the Constitution's 15th Amendment.

Joining in the Warren opinion were Justices William O. Douglas, Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan, William J. Brennan, Potter Stewart, Byron White and Abe Fortas.

South Carolina, joined by Virginia, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi had attacked the new law as violative of the Constitution. The federal government defended the law and was joined by 20 states.

Menasha Girl Wins Title

Appleton Crowns Queen

A young lady with brown hair and lipstick smeared nastily bestowed by fellow contestants on both cheeks stood at the end of the runway and unashamedly splashed tears while a full house stood and applauded at the Miss Appleton Pageant Sunday evening.

Miss Barbara Silwanowicz, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Silwanowicz, 724 Fifth St., Menasha, received the Miss Appleton crown from Miss Luane Kay Briske, Menasha, and will officially represent Appleton for the coming year. She played a piano selection for her talent presentation.

The new Miss Appleton, employed at American Can Co., Neenah, is enrolled in a sociology course at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center and teaches a Sunday school course. She hopes to attend the University of Wisconsin and major in music.

St. Mary Graduate

Standing five feet, three inches, and weighing 108 pounds, the brown-eyed young lady is the second in the 1964 graduating class of St. Mary, Menasha, High School to wear the Miss Appleton crown.

Miss Luane Kay Briske, also of Menasha, bestowed her former title during the pageant ceremony.

First runner-up was Miss Jeanette Joiner, a Lawrence University freshman from Polo, Ill., who played two Bartok folk songs on the piano. Second runner-up was Miss Joan Koenig, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Lyle Koenig, a student at Milwaukee kee Lutheran Teachers College, who gave a dramatic reading from "The King and I." Also named to the top five were Miss Valerie Schilling, daughter of Mrs. Alice Schilling, 1523 E. Gunn St., and Miss Barbara Wessel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wessel, route 2, Menasha.

Full Production

For the first time the Jaycee-sponsored Miss Appleton pageant was staged with a full production number, with the Appleton High School Chorus, directed by Lester Schultz, participating in the salute to "Young America."

Don C. Smith performed as master of ceremonies during the evening and special songs were sung by John Turner. The girls competed in evening gown, talent and swim suit categories.

Nixon Ignores Question About Buckley Quip

Refuses to Confirm Alleged Remark Concerning Fears

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — A strange one-way correspondence between Richard M. Nixon and an influential conservative leader shows how Nixon has failed to win from the conservative movement the trust and confidence that Barry Goldwater enjoyed.

The situation was brought to public attention for the first time last week by William A. Rusher, publisher of the National Review (a leading journal of conservative opinion) and a Novak founder of the draft Goldwater movement in 1962. Appearing on the National Education Television network, Rusher said "it is unclear whether Nixon wants to read the old Goldwater movement out of the party. He then challenged Nixon to make it clear.

What Rusher only hinted at over television was that Nixon has failed on two occasions to reply to letters from Rusher asking hard questions. The mere fact those questions were even asked reveals the confidence gap between Nixon and the conservatives, who are essential to his 1968 Presidential hopes.

Grass Roots Backing
All this conflicts sharply with surface indications that Nixon is the anointed heir of Goldwater. Surveys of grass roots conservatives give Nixon heavy backing. Goldwater himself plugs Nixon at every opportunity.

What's more, sophisticated conservative also were warming toward Nixon again last year. Rusher's National Review reported in the fall that Nixon's wounding of the respectable Right had won him the tacit support (if not final commitment) of most Republican conservatives.

But Nixon severely damaged his efforts ever to get that "final commitment" by a remark to newsmen while campaigning in Virginia last October.

Asked about the John Birch Society, Nixon replied that the Birchers could be handled but that the real menace to the Republican party came from the Buckleyites—that is, the followers of National Review Editor William F. Buckley Jr., then running for mayor of New York City on the Conservative ticket. Nixon's statement was reported by us.

To conservatives, this was the old Nixon at work. Believing he had secured the Republican Right, they reasoned, he was now working on the Republican Left. Accordingly, Rusher fired off a terse letter to him on Oct. 14.

"As a fairly well-known Buckleyite, I would deeply appreciate knowing whether the remark was correctly attributed to you," he wrote. Nixon did not reply. On Nov. 2, Rusher tried again. In the interest of simple justice and more particularly in the interests of a sound future for the Republican party, he asked did Nixon make the remark?

Rusher added: "Quite frankly, I cannot believe that you uttered those words. But it is critically important to many conservative Republicans in this country to know whether, in fact, you did or not—and only you can tell that."

Since then, only silence (save for Rusher's television appearance). But the story of the unanswered "Dear Mr. Nixon" letters has spread all through influential conservative circles.

Secret Meeting
More recently, the renewed suspicion of Nixon was fueled by a report that on the week end of Feb. 19 he conducted a secret meeting in Cambridge Mass. with leaders of the Ripon Society, a national organization of liberal Republicans, an intellectuals that is anathema to conservatives. Here say the suspicious Buckleyites is another example of Nixon's duplicity.

Actually, the facts are quite different. Nixon has not accepted a standing invitation from the Ripon Society. What he did was confer in Cambridge with several Republicans from the Harvard Law School, including one or two Ripon members. However, it is doubtful that the fact will catch up with the rumor.

Barry Goldwater did not create the Goldwater movement; can not control it and cannot deliver it to Nixon (as he now seems to desire). The fact that Bill Rusher would go on television to demand that Nixon say where he stands suggests the movement is by no means committed to Nixon. In truth, it is searching for a new horse to ride in 1968, and his name may not be Nixon.

Waupaca Bank Makes Move to New Building

Deposit Boxes and Records Transferred Saturday Morning

WAUPACA — The Farmers State Bank of Waupaca moved into its new building this weekend and opened for business today at its new location.

The new building is at the corner of W. Fulton and Washington streets, with the main entrance on Fulton. Construction started on the 84 by 96 foot, one-story building last April.

Moving of safety deposit boxes and bookkeeping department equipment started at 6 a.m. Saturday and continued throughout the day. Security guards for the moving project were provided by the Waupaca police department.

Last item to be moved was the five-ton main vault door. Workmen from an Appleton moving firm removed the heavy door after the vault had been cleared. They moved it to the new bank and installed it there. The outdoor time and temperature clock on the old bank building, at W. Fulton and Main streets, also was moved to the new bank.

One-Story Building

A modern, single-story building, it features drive-up teller windows and a parking lot on the Washington Street side of the building.

Inside the main lobby, which has a raised ceiling, are seven teller windows. To the right of the lobby are executive offices, a large waiting area and the main vault. The bookkeeping department is on the west side of the building.

There also is a records vault next to the bookkeeping department and two record vaults in the basement. Also in the basement are four storage rooms and an employees' lounge.

Queries Cole Morrow Remark Alleging State Won't Receive Funds From Aviation Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nautics Commission meeting news article which appeared in held in Oshkosh.

The Post-Crescent (Appleton, Wis.) has led to an attack by Brown County's Austin Straubel, Sen. William Proxmire on Cole Morrow, chief of the Federal Aviation Agency's airports service section.

The article, which appeared in the Post-Crescent Feb. 26 indicated that Morrow made a statement that Wisconsin would receive no airport aid as long as Proxmire is a U. S. senator.

Denies Statement

The Wisconsin Democrat said he isn't bowing to pressure that threatens to withhold federal airport assistance for his state.

Proxmire asked William F. McKee, head of the FAA to investigate the purported statement by Morrow.

The FAA has denied that such a statement was made. The alleged remark was quoted by a Post-Crescent reporter who was covering a monthly State Aero-

As long as your senior senator from Wisconsin is there, there won't be any money," the Brown County officials said they were told by Morrow.

Proxmire said he was at first reluctant to believe what he read in the newspaper, but changed his mind when "responsible local officials attested to the truth of the allegation."

Critic of FAA

Proxmire has been a critic of some FAA policies and procedures and has spoken out against expenditures for jet aircraft for personal use by agency officials in their travels throughout the country.

Proxmire is a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee. He said he is subjected to many pressures to approve budget requests but "this is the first time that a federal agency has made an apparent threat to condition aid to my state on my attitude toward agency's appropriation requests."

Proxmire told McKee that his criticism of FAA expenditure policies would not be altered in the least by a direct or implied threat.

Proxmire said his criticism of the FAA was probably the cause of the alleged statement. The agency said it was making an investigation.

Requests Pending

Airport aid programs for Green Bay, Oshkosh and Eau Claire are pending in the 1967 aid program. The airports in each city require longer runways to handle North Central Airlines DC9 jet aircraft which are expected to go into service next year.

Citizen Petitions Urged

Site Protest Takes New Turn

Appleton's Mayor Clarence Mitchell and other Fox Cities governmental leaders today spearheaded a mounting campaign officially to protest selection of northwest Green Bay for a new four-year university and requested residents to circulate petitions protesting the site selection.

The state selection committee announced Feb. 25, it had picked a site east of Green Bay to serve Northeastern Wisconsin.

"There has been strong public reaction to the site selection on the part of Appleton and other Fox Cities residents," Mitchell said this morning.

Receive Numerous Calls
"In checking with officials of other cities, towns and villages throughout the region I have found they, too, are receiving numerous calls from people who were surprised and upset by the action of the site committee," Mitchell said.

Gov. Warren Knowles, who has yet to comment on the site selection, today was scheduled to receive the first official governmental protest from the City of Appleton.

Mayor Mitchell said a petition of protest authorized last week by the city council was being sent to the governor by registered mail.

It is expected the governor and state's Coordinating Committee for Higher Education will be under heavy fire from governmental and citizen groups this week.

Seek Public Support
"Although the council has passed the protest petition, we are asking for public support from the people in the Fox Cities area to protest the action taken by the site committee," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said residents of this area are being requested to circulate petitions protesting the site selection and to forward them "as soon as possible" to the office of their mayor, village president or town chairman.

"We want to get all the petitions, cards and letters of protest immediately so they can be filed with the governor and coordinating committee at once," Mitchell advised.

To File Petition
Mitchell indicated various governmental officials would probably file them at Madison in person to put emphasis on the general objection the people in

No Real Consensus

Despite an effort, clearly maneuvered from the White House, to get Senate critics of the administration's Viet Nam policy on record, the votes on the $4.8 billion supplemental military authorization bill and on tabling an amendment offered by Senator Wayne Morse did not reflect confirmed opinion.

Quite obviously the appropriations bill was not the right place for congressmen to indicate their points of view on Viet Nam. The money is needed to conduct the war in Viet Nam and withholding it would be undercutting the American fighting forces already there. This sort of thing could not be tolerated by all except two senators for both moral and political reasons. Even such a stern critic as Senator Fulbright agreed with Majority Leader Mansfield that the bill should not be used to criticize policy.

But supporters of the administration attempted to make another vote indicative of support or dissent. Senator Morse offered an amendment to the appropriation bill in effect repealing the resolution of August 1964 which virtually authorized President Johnson to use any means necessary to halt aggression in Southeast Asia. Senator Mansfield's motion to table the amendment became the vehicle for an administration try to gain another consensus. White House Press Secretary Bill Moyers said that the President felt that any senator who had "a change of heart" about the Tonkin Gulf resolution should vote against tabling. In addition to Senators Morse and Gruening the only ones who actually voted against the military appropriation Senators Fulbright, Mc Carthy of Minnesota and Young of Ohio voted against tabling.

Certainly the votes were not a clear indication of point of view. Senator Gavloria Nelson pointed out that in 1964 he had tried to get an amendment added to the Tonkin Gulf resolution emphasizing that it is the sense of Congress that, except when provoked to a greater response, we should continue to attempt to avoid a direct military involvement in the Southeast Asia conflict. But while Senator

Nelson must feel the same way today he did not vote against tabling the Morse amendment.

We can wonder at this time why such current critics as Senator Fulbright did not join Senator Nelson and a handful of others in their concerns in 1964. In part it was due to insufficient information from an administration in the middle of a presidential election campaign with a major issue the alleged trigger happiness of the opposition. Reporter magazine writer Meg Greenfield also points out that Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee had become known as something of a weak sister in the senate. Its staff work was not of a high order. Even in the summer of 1965 when decisions had been made in Washington to send more American troops the administration didn't want to rock the boat giving the impression that because the reserves were not being called up the war was not very serious. Instead the decision was on the policy of how to provide men for the war the increased draft quotas were accepted—and not on whether the war was getting bigger.

To a considerable extent it has been this effort of the President a highly political man to make every decision become a political advantage that has caused the current storm. Last spring he accepted the congressional vote in favor of a $700 million appropriation as massive support for his Viet Nam policies. But his spokesmen this year almost frantically insisted that the vote on the new appropriations should not be so regarded—until the bill passed overwhelmingly.

The vote on the appropriations bill certainly reflected the opinion of most Americans. We cannot withhold the needed military supplies from our fighting forces involved in a very nasty war. But we hope that congressmen concerned on the policies in Viet Nam the lack of integrity toward the American public and congress from administration spokesmen and the miscalculations of those in high places keep emphasizing that the ballot was no ringing vote of confidence in the Johnson administration.

'However, the AFL-CIO controls only a small percentage of the total population.'

Taylor Writes

As One Wage Earner to Another, Writer Says We're Being Taken

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Most politicians privately admit that working people don't know how to use their money. They even agree that if the truth were known about this generalized cancer they might face a tax revolt that could knock them smack out of office.

Well fellow peasants let's blow the whistle on their merry little game. Next it's we peasants who pay the bill and should tell them the score.

Although the newspapers are full of help wanted ads every day and employment has hit an all time high relief rolls in New York City and other places go up and up and up—adding new hundreds of thousands. Why?

A letter to an editor in a they entertained the Pioneers on this occasion.

The Society then adjourned to meet at the call of the President and Secretary during the first week of September next.

On the return trip the company made the walkin ring with the good old songs of long ago until Appleton was reached. All expressed themselves more than satisfied with the trip.

New York newspaper by a Mrs. Bea Harris. Port Eddy, N. Y. gave one answer. My husband fights poverty. He works.

On the same day that Congress raised the national debt ceiling to $328 billion the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Expenditure reported that civilian agency employment had jumped again like a leaping puma. The Great Society has added about 50,000 more bureaucrats to the public payroll.

Every working man wants to pay his proper taxes. But he does not want to support a lot of things and people he has no business paying for.

To get him to do this without knowing he's doing it is one of the oldest tricks in the history of ambitious government. For a government is never—never—a source of wealth. A government is a spender not an earner. Every thing produced is produced by the people. Everything the Great Society says it will give to the people it must first take away from the people.

This taxes can be sound but taxes can also be highway robbery.

Our political hay burners problem is to keep the public cost as invisible as possible. And the beautiful skill they show in this is something to see—except that we pay every penny.

The politicians mumbled a few muffled words on the size of the vote about Social Security tax increases while they shouted at the top of their voices about income tax reductions. Well the boost more than washes out the reduction for most workers.

The pay is withheld. You work for it but never see it. And that too helps keep the costs invisible.

This is not to knock Social Security or even its expansion but simply to point out the effect on our pocketbooks. The Tax Foundation Inc. finds that this year the average American wage earner must work two hours and 19 minutes every working day for only his tax bills—federal, state and local.

If you quit at 5 p.m. you've been working since 2:41 to pay your taxes. If you start at 9 a.m. you could have killed in the morning—every morning—doing nothing until 11:19 and then begin to work except for your taxes.

When you talk about the cost of living you're taking mostly about taxes. Nothing compares with their bite out of your day's work. But are you told this?

PEANUTS IS PEANUTS

Your second largest bite is housing and household operations. These are peanuts by comparison. They cost you only 1 1/2 hours of work a day. You pay your food bill in one hour 16 minutes you earn your transportation in 39 minutes your clothes in 31 minutes medical charges in 21 your recreation in another 21.

At around $167 billion a year the federal state and local taxes are taking from us about one third of the national income. They now equal $851 a year for every man woman and child in the United States.

No wonder the housewife can't get along on her budget and pay the taxes too. That $851 is a round trip ticket to Europe—twice a year—for every living soul in our country.

Maybe it's impractical for our entire population to fly to Europe and back twice a year, but it's certainly practical for us to tell the political hay burners that we're on to them and that it ain't hay.

Were a rich country, says President Johnson. Who's rich? In simple truth it's pitifully hard for most folks to lay by a nickel.

1965 Biggest Year Ever for General Aviation Industry

The general aviation industry marked 1965 as its biggest year with delivery of 11,852 airplanes having an estimated retail value of $442 million.

Production in 1965 was 27 per cent ahead of 1964 and the dollar value was up 60 per cent according to a report released by the Utility Airplane Council of the Aero-Space Industries Association.

The disproportionate gain in dollar over units the council report is a result of a substantial increase in sales of larger aircraft including more than 200 turboprop and pure jet plane which have a much higher unit price.

Wisconsin Report

Education Reporting Takes Up More of P-C Madison Bureau Time

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—Somebody has described education as Wisconsin's greatest growth industry. Doubtless the observation suits developments in other parts of the country as well. In no period of the state's history has there been such a dynamic movement and expansion in any public service as that now under way in education and particularly higher education and most particularly tax supported higher education.

This reporter during the last few months has kept an informal diary of his work in dispatching news from the state capitol to his client editors out of a vague awareness that the education "beat" stories appeared to be pushing aside the topics of orthodox emphasis in earlier years. The results have been surprising. A statehouse reporter today not only has more work in keeping abreast of educational developments but that work exceeds in volume and space all of the standard state services and program reports combined.

In some weeks there are so many major policy making bodies making significant decisions and making news as they make those decisions that it takes a fleet-footed reporter to handle all of them with the diligence and attention they deserve.

THE BIG STORY

That more students are attending college today than ever before is now a common place. That would have been true without special decisions in public policy during recent years out of the impetus of population increases a higher level of prosperity and an increasing educational attainment of the electorate. Education begets a demand for education.

What is truly new about the story is the fact that state policy is making it easier than ever before for the boy and girl to receive education beyond the high school and that state policy is being evolved to make it yet easier for those who will follow to the registrar's offices in the years ahead.

A college or university education was always legally available to the qualified Wisconsin high school graduate. Three decades ago in this reporter's time students with no greater qualifications than those of today—and perhaps inferior attainments—were being admitted to state supported colleges and universities. The $30 fee of those days was probably fairly comparable to the $160 fee of today. But the student was required to go to the institution. Today the program is increasingly going to him.

Opportunity provided in terms of easy geographical proximity is probably the most significant current adaptation of the historically liberal higher education program of the state. New university branches are proliferating not only in the new freshman sophomore centers but in new four year branches. The site committee which wrote a report on the location of the newly authorized Northeastern Wisconsin university branch last week, for example was thinking ahead 20 or 30 years or more, about a school of major size.

ONCE SELECT

When those men and women in Wisconsin who are now in youthful middle age were enrolling in college they were select representatives of their generation. Perhaps 10 or 15 per cent of their contemporaries accompanied them. Today the ratio is heading toward 40 per cent and with the increasing growth of degree programs in accredited local vocational schools organized post high school education will soon serve 50 per cent of the maturing young people.

Moreover policy today is being developed on the assumption that post high school training of some kind with college and university enrollment predominating will be the rule. That is the meaning of the vast and costly decentralization of plant, the truly generous new programs of subsidy for the student, the reorganization of the technical school program and capital outlays that would have caused shudders among some of the veteran statehouse politicians if they had been advanced when they were freshmen at the capitol.

Can't Expect Nations All to be Consistent

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We are not especially surprised when an individual acts out of character or displays inconsistencies in his attitudes and behavior. Most of us recognize that a person is made up of differing, and sometimes conflicting, characteristics.

But we are often surprised,

baiffed and angry when a nation acts in a contradictory or inconsistent fashion. Somehow we expect a country to exhibit more uniformity than a person, even though history is filled with the irrationalities committed by nations, often to their own great or extingtuishment.

A foreigner recently was discussing the paradoxes in American life. He pointed out that we are at the same time both the most idealistic and the most materialistic of nations, both the most practical and the most given to lofty abstractions, both the most individualistic and yet the most conformist in our social conventions.

I agreed that all this was true and it reminded me of a similar list of national paradoxes about the French people that foreign correspondent David Schoenbrun gave in a magazine article about 10 years ago under the heading "Manners and Morals of the French." He wrote:

A Frenchman is rarely seen drunk in public or in private but France has the highest rate of alcoholism in the world. Frenchmen are fervent patriots but they invest their money abroad. A Frenchman is thrifty to the point of miserliness in his private family affairs but will cheerfully raid the public treasury and laugh at constantly mounting national deficits.

Frenchmen are fervent patriots but they invest their money abroad. A Frenchman is thrifty to the point of miserliness in his private family affairs but will cheerfully raid the public treasury and laugh at constantly mounting national deficits.

"A Frenchman" he went on, prides himself on his logic but turns off the heating system exactly on March 21, the first official day of spring, even though it may be snowing outside. A French deputy delivers fiery speeches in Parliament about the vital importance of putting down the rebellion in Algeria and then votes against the government's bill for increased taxes to pay the cost of putting down the Algerian revolt. All the French want is to be allowed to live in peace—yet France has been at war longer than any other country.

A similar list could easily be made up for England, for Italy, for Germany, for Russia, for Japan, for any of the 19th Century nations, were models of law and order and decency within their own borders and dreadful despots in their colonies. The 20th Century Germans were highly civilized and educated and at the same time wildly responsive to the primitive blood-letting of Nazism. Nations, like persons, rarely know where their true self interest really lies.

East Germany Bids to Join U.N.

There seems to be little chance that East Germany's surprising bid to join the United Nations will get even as far as the Security Council's agenda. But it is a good time to consider the possibilities of such membership for the various partitioned nations in the world.

Both South Korea and South Viet Nam have applied for membership in the past and their applications were vetoed by the Soviet Union. Both applied four times. South Korea in 1949, 1955, 1957 and 1958 while South Viet Nam applied in 1952, 1955, 1957 and 1958. North Viet Nam also applied for membership in 1948 and 1952 but failed to win the necessary majority although there was no veto. West Germany has never formally applied but keeps an observer at the United Nations and contributes heavily to the U.N. budget.

The East German application came through Polish members who would like to see the division of Germany become permanent for both nationalistic and ideological reasons. Both are Communist controlled but of probably greater importance to the Poles is their control of areas in eastern Germany which they want to maintain. Russia virtually handed the territory to the Poles but a reunified Germany with strong representation in the West would certainly demand it back.

It would appear that the admission of both sides in the partitioned countries of Germany, Korea and Viet Nam would increase the chances for the dialogue between East and West which could contribute to understanding and the chances for peace and cooperation. But the big trouble is that the partitioning then would gain permanence. The United States and most of our Allies do not recognize the governments of East Germany, North Korea and North Viet Nam. As far as East Germany is concerned we consider it still an occupied country. Under these circumstances even East Germany's pledge to abide by the United Nations Charter is largely irrelevant.

The application however may serve to point up two things. It should remind both the Soviet Union and the United States that all the problems of post war Europe have not yet been solved. And it ought to make us consider seriously how far we should go in ignoring a government which is obviously in control in a country whether we think it a fair just government or not.

Looking Backward

Pioneer Society Takes a Trip

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 17, 1866.

On Thursday of last week 29 pioneers of this city and their wives treated themselves to a ride to Minnesota Junction and return in celebration of their annual Festival.

Nothing of moment occurred on the down trip, and in due time, the party arrived at the Junction House where all were received with generous cordialities by Messrs. Johnston and Ross and their estimable ladies.

Music singing, sociality and varied recreations filled the time until 3 o'clock when the company sat down to a well filled board groaning with good things for the inner man. Such a dinner we have never seen surpassed for variety and quantity.

After the table exercise was completed the Society chose officers for the ensuing year, as follows: President J. F. Johnston, Vice President Col. H. I. Blond, Secretary J. S. Buck.

At the close of the reading of two letters appropriate remarks were made by President Johnston the Rev. F. B. Doe, James Gilmore, W. S. Warner, Wait Cross, Hon. A. B. Jackson and J. S. Buck. After which a vote of thanks was tendered to our worthy host and hostess for the generous manner in which

Viet Nam Critics Lack Solution for Ending War

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright is a kind of classic example of all those critical about the war in Viet Nam but snagged on the dilemma of how to end it.

They have ideas on what to do or not to do — as some showed before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which Fulbright is chairman — but are hazy on solutions.

Two speeches by Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat, one last June 15 and one March 1, and a statement Sunday night show the dilemma of the critics of the Johnson administration, which is in a bit of a dilemma itself. President Johnson tried to get the Communists to negotiate. Having failed, he must continue the war, he feels, without stepping it up to such a degree that Red China might feel impelled to jump in.

In June, Fulbright said complete victory would be too costly but unconditional withdrawal from Viet Nam is unthinkable because of the disastrous results.

Withdrawal, he felt, would betray this country's obligations to people we have promised to defend and weaken their belief in U.S. guarantees.

and after that, he proposed, the United States should join with others in a large program for the social and economic development of Southeast Asia.

Johnson Proposal (Johnson had proposed just such a program weeks before Fulbright did.)

Almost a month before Fulbright's June 15 talk Johnson said the Red Chinese are bent on dominating all Asia but on March 1 Fulbright came up with another speech, this one proposing how to deal with Red China.

not go into details on that. Fulbright announced Sunday night that his Foreign Relations Committee will open hearings Tuesday aimed at increasing public knowledge about Red China. He said there is a real danger that the "open-ended" Viet Nam conflict will lead to war between the United States and Communist China.

Americans should be "open-minded and inquisitive" and try to learn all they can about the Chinese, he said.

Last Thursday, two days after Fulbright proposed his neutralization idea, Red China linked Johnson and his critics together as "fools" and said there was no fundamental difference between them about continuing the Viet Nam war.

Demand for Better Health Care Will Create New Fields

EDITOR'S NOTE — With new federal and state laws, demands pressing on it from all directions, American medicine today faces a time of crisis. But from this period of testing, new patterns of better health care may emerge. This is the first of five articles appraising the nation's medical picture today and tomorrow.

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The young, dark-haired doctor in Boston paused, searching for his words.

"It's a tidal wave," he said. "There's simply a great tidal wave of demand and human need for more and better health care, boiling up all across the land."

Standing on the traditional shoreline, to meet this wave, are some 280,000 physicians, about 600,000 nurses, and 97,000 dentists.

Before the wave subsides, says a surgeon in Houston, it will strain, drown, or change many traditional ways of supplying the nation's medical manpower and meeting the health needs of its people.

Add Quality

In their place will rise some new structures in the house of medicine, new kinds of health assistants, new ways to keep people healthy, to extend life, to add to its quality.

This now is a time of crisis, of a serious shortage not only of doctors and nurses but also of technologists and others possessing dozens of needed skills, according to many, though not all, leaders in various responsibilities of medical and health care.

The shortages "will get worse before they get better," authorities in many cities agree.

The tidal wave springs from many sources:

1. Medicare, starting July 1, providing hospitalization under insurance for up to 18 million citizens of 65 or over.
2. Medicare is certain to increase demand for hospital beds, surgical, medical and nursing care. No one is sure how much. "But ready or not, here it comes," one doctor remarks.
3. Coming establishment of regional centers for heart disease, cancer and strokes, designed to spread the best, most modern knowledge and techniques more broadly through communities.
4. Spread of prepaid insurance plans for medical and hospital care, removing some of the financial hesitation to seek attention.
5. Growth of comprehensive community mental health centers, already provided for under acts what to think." "She rejects any suggestion there can be an emotional element in her stomach pains."

Every patient has some personal experience, and frequent gripe, about physicians or hospitals.

"I kept my finger on that buzzer and it was 20 minutes before that nurse ever showed up," the doctor completely missed the diagnosis: it turned out my mother had cancer.

"You should see the bill I got," Perhaps there's no hope of enormous. People are demanding good health as a fundamental right."

"Unless the private sector of medicine comes up with the answers, the tendency will be to legislate those answers."

"Our problem, basically, is how to step into the 20th century in some respects," adds Dr. Raymond Pruitt, acting dean of Baylor University Medical School in Houston.

There is no dearth of ideas, suggestions and proposals to remedy problems and to improve medical and health care. A great trouble, says Dr. John H. Knowles, administrator of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, "is that everyone is feeling just part of the elephant. No one feels much commitment outside the area of his own interest."

And it is a big, odd and complicated elephant.

Next: parts of the "elephant."

Lift Gloom Picturing DeGaulle at Hula Hoop

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The sameness of this world sometimes palls.
Particularly at this time of the year, everything seems dull and repetitious. We need change — change of any kind.
For example, life would be so much more interesting if —
Every week had two paydays and no Mondays
Bing Crosby put his toupee on backward
Ho Chi Minh would quit balking and start talking
My laundry would quit putting starch in my shirt collars
Helen Hayes acted more of ten
Somebody taught Charles de Gaulle how to use a hula hoop
Lyndon Johnson would barbeque a whale on the White House lawn
That first robin would hurry up and get here
Yep, it would also help brighten our winter doldrums if —
Caviar tasted like strawberries
Congress would wipe out the teen-age problem by making it illegal for anyone to be between 12 and 20 years old
My neighbor would quit studying the piano and take up yoga

A television network developed a program that no other network could copy
Wives liked home cooking more
The people who say they simply don't understand what we are doing in Viet Nam would go there and find out
Girls who wear purple lipstick and white stockings would instead wear white lipstick and purple stockings
Somebody would cross-breed a collie and a duck and develop a dog that quacked and had long-haired feathers
Oh, yes, it would help jolt us all out of our monotonous rut if —
A bus driver would say, 'Everybody move to the back of the bus,' and then get up and lead the way
Some fashion magazine put a picture of a fat model on its cover — just once
Wall Street gave a block party
Hat check girls gave trading stamps
Some genius invented a non-caloric food that had a real flavor
A promoter put on a wrestling match between Jayne Mansfield and Gypsy Rose Lee — with Dagmar as referee

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. Republican Beats Byrd Machine in Virginia

Editor's Note — J. Kenneth Robinson took on Virginia's powerful Byrd organization — and won. He now holds the seat in the 40-member State Senate that Harry F. Byrd Jr. relinquished when he was appointed to succeed his father in the U.S. Senate. Luke Byrd Jr., Robinson is from Winchester. He also is vice president of Byrd Sr.'s apple storage firm, and a personal friend of the two Virginia Democrats. Only Robinson is a Republican.

By JOHN F. DAFFRON
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — On the last row in the last seat — No. 40 — in the Virginia State Senate sits the man who is last on the seniority list.
He is J. Kenneth Robinson of Winchester, a pleasant-spoken, compact man of 49. He has given no indication of flexing the considerable amount of political muscle he showed in the special 21st Senate District election of last December that put him in office.
Robinson is a Republican in the lopsidedly Democratic legislature, the role of a minority party member in the past has been that of a karon player cutting in with the New York Philharmonic.

But this role may not apply at all to Robinson, whose GOP Senate teammates are outnumbered 36-4.
Party's Future
He came to the Senate with the accolades of the GOP as a man who might be carrying a big part of the party's future with him. His road from Winchester to Richmond had been paved with obstacles.

However, Robinson made it look easy. He won the seat held by Harry F. Byrd Jr. — who replaced his father, Harry F. Byrd Sr., as a U.S. senator — in a district that had been the very bastion of state Democratic power, and seat of the Byrd organization in Virginia.
He overcame Democrat Joseph A. Massie Jr. by better than a 2-1 margin — 10,293 votes to 4,949. Robinson did this despite such backing for Massie as that of the Byrds, Virginia House Speaker E. Blackburn Moore of Berryville, U.S. Rep. John D. Marsh of the 7th District, and Rep. Howard W. Smith of the 8th.

Now Robinson has the seat both Byrds once held, and his desk is directly beneath a portrait of Byrd Sr., Virginia's retired Democratic patriarch. But Robinson is inclined to discount the weight of political partisanship in his victory.

To put it bluntly, he says, "it amounted to a popularity contest. I was better known and still had a skeleton organization left from my unsuccessful campaign for Congress in 1962."

Still, his victory cheered Republicans — and made Democrats take notice.

There was immediate talk he would seek a U.S. Senate seat this year, but Robinson disavowed any such intentions, saying he had pledged to run for a full four-year State Senate term next year.

He says he has given no thought to the possibility of running for governor in 1969. "But I believe I would want to keep my political interests in the State of Virginia," he adds.

Robinson is a former Army major, an orchardist and a personal friend and business associate of the Byrds. The elder Byrd is president of an apple storage firm, and Robinson is vice president. He also is a friend and frequent companion at tennis of the Democrat — at tennis of the Democrat — Massie, who beat for the Senate.

Robinson is the very antithesis of the tough, tightly party political figure. He has a definite feeling for party, however, and believes a strong two-party system will improve the quality of Virginia government.

We'll begin to attract better candidates as we begin to win more elections," he says. "Young men who aspire to political careers want to be on the winning side."

To Robinson, that side is the Republican party of Virginia.

California Home's Light Bulbs Burst

OJAI, Calif. (AP) — Someone or something keeps blowing out the lights in Conrad Meach's home — violently.

In neighbors' homes the lights burn steadily, without even a flicker. Meach's light bulbs explode.

Repairmen are baffled. Engineers tested some light bulbs but couldn't make them explode even after duplicating the circumstances at Meach's home.

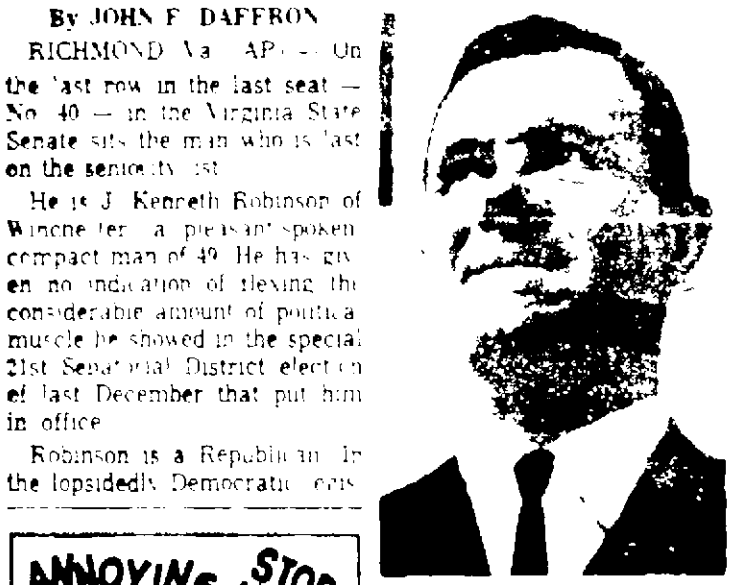

Meach's wife, Mary, first tried taping hair nets around the bulbs to prevent flying fragments. Now she just doesn't use the ceiling fixtures anymore.

Age of Puberty Can Vary Among Boys

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. This lad is about two years ahead of puberty, but there can be quite a variation without being abnormal. If any serious glandular disturbance were present, you probably would have detected signs of it a good deal earlier.

Assuming that the boy is just a good bit on the early side, here are some suggestions:

The oil and sweat glands become extremely active at puberty, which accounts for both the pimples and odor. Scrupulous bathing is essential but shaving underarm hair will also help besides.

Frequent use of soap and water on the face, and copious rinsing can do much to prevent pimples (acne); however your doctor may have other suggestions if the trouble continues.

I doubt that you have any need to worry, but an examination by your doctor would set at rest any doubt on that score.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 13-year-old daughter has a noticeable growth of dark hair on her upper lip. She has become extremely self-conscious about it. Is there any way this hair can be removed safely?—Mrs. S. J.

Yes, something can be done, and is important to do so from the psychological standpoint.

At this age the hair growth rarely is related to glandular troubles, but more likely is the result of family characteristics. Further, while similar growth may occur in blondes, it is not very apparent. Fine hair in brunettes is more prominent.

The three main ways of removing the situation are by shaving, bleaching, or removal by electrolysis.

Bleaching is simplest and quite often satisfactory. Try it and see whether it sufficiently solves your daughter's self-consciousness.

If not, shaving is safe and effective. It does not, contrary to popular belief, make the hairs grow coarser or heavier, but it does have to be repeated regularly to prevent stubble.

Finally, removal of the individual hairs by electrolysis is perfectly feasible and is the only permanent method. Once a hair is removed by this means, it will not return. It is possible for hairs, now very fine, to become more noticeable as time passes, and they can be removed the same way. I warn you of this because some folks have been needlessly upset, thinking that these new hairs are the old ones growing back. They don't.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would a humidifier help my sinus trouble? Our house is very dry.—J. M.

If at other times of year your sinuses aren't bothersome, it is a reasonable supposition that the dryness is irritating the tissues, and some method of keeping the air moist—humidifier or pans of water near the heating vents—should be expected to help you.

To Mrs. E. K.: Erythema nodosum is featured by red, painful nodules under the skin, usually caused by a strep infection. Women get it more often than men. There is a tendency for it to be seasonal, chiefly autumn and spring. It is not hereditary, and tends to subside in about a month, but salicylates (aspirin or related compounds) may hasten recovery.

If You Change Your Mind, Turn UP a Voting Pointer and Turn DOWN Another for the Same Office.

As no votes are registered until the Red Handle is moved to open the curtain, you can make as many changes as you desire while the Red Handle is at the right side. The machine is so arranged that you can turn down only the proper number of voting pointers for each office; you cannot spoil your ballot by voting for too many candidates. Each candidate's voting pointer is located just above the name; a voting pointer must be turned down over the name of the candidate for whom you wish to vote. LEAVE VOTING POINTER DOWN. No one will know how you have voted because the movement of the Red Handle to the left returns the voting pointer to the original position before the curtain begins to open.
